Seek Federal Help To Block 999 Ft. Tower

by GLORIA DAVIS

Bristol Twp. Chairman Noel Elfering is looking for federal and state agencies to shoot down the proposal by LESA Broadcasting, South Bend, Ind., to build a 999-foot tv antenna between Hwy. V and the Wisconsin-Illinois border, even before it reaches the township board which has already come out in opposition to its construction in the area proposed.

"First they have to get approval from the Dept. of Aeronautics, the Federal Aviation Administration, the Federal Communications Agency and the State Dept. of Aeronautics before they officially approach us," said Elfering, adding, "I don't think they'll get that approval."

"We have a United Airlines pilot, Capt. Bob Helfferich on the Bristol Planning Board who, with his flying experience, is definitely opposed to the building of a tower, the height of which will only be topped in the area by the John Hancock Bldg. and the Sears Tower in Chicago.

LESA's 5,000 watt channel is expected to take to the air waves by the middle of 1987. It is owned by evangelist Lester Sumrall and family and religious broadcasts will top the channel's programming.

With Dec. 26 the deadline for complaints to the Federal Aviation Administration past, a representative of that agency said that many complaints have been received, "but its all still in the discussion stage." A conclusion and possible recommendation may be forthcoming from the FAA inside of a week.

Elfering, a pilot himself, took his plane up to 1,811 feet above sea level or the height that the top of the proposed tower will be.

People he had stationed on the ground said that most small aircraft that fly in the area fly lower than Elfering was.

"The tower could force private planes up into the commercial flight patterns from Billy Mitchell Field, Milwaukee, to O'Hare Field in Chicago," said Elfering.

The antenna is proposed to be built on 55 acres, meaning that guide-wires to hold the tower up will be widespread in the immediate construction area and residents claim they will also provide another hazard.

The 150 residents of the Rainbow Trailer Ct., located on North Ave. at the border, will have the tower right next door and are afraid that if any damage is done to it, it might fall right on top of the court.

The tower, planned to be built just south of the Kenosha Municipal Airport, will pose problems there too.

Former Antioch Chef Shot During Robbery

by PATTY KOROM

Former Antioch resident, John Gianolis, was shot in an armed robbery at the Zephyr Ice Cream Parlor and Restaurant on Dec. 28. The restaurant is located at 1777 W. Wilson Ave. in Chicago.

A former chef at Tuffles Restaurant (now the Squire) from 1978-81, Gianolis had moved to Chicago to work as the evening manager of the Zephyr Ice Cream Store and Restaurant.

He is listed in serious but stable condition at Northwestern Memorial Hospital in Chicago. The wound left Gianolis paralyzed from the chest down, with no hope for recovery according to a hospital spokesperson.

According to a spokesman for the Chicago Police Department, three people have been charged in the robbery and shooting incident.

The alleged robbers, described by Chicago Police as a 'robbery crew,' have reportedly been linked to several armed robberies in the Chicago area.

Tanya Woods, 23, of Chicago, has been charged with attempted murder and armed robbery. A second person, Ray Charles Collins, 30, of Chicago, has been charged with armed robbery. A warrant has been issued for the third person, Michael Paicley, of Chicago, for armed robbery.

According to the police, the weapons used in the robbery included a sawed off shotgun, a shotgun with an 18-inch barrel and pistol grip and a 38-caliber pistol. Police say the weapon used to shoot Gianolis was a 38 caliber pistol.

Taken in the robbery was $1,000 from the restaurant and another $1,000 from employees and patrons of the restaurant.

Gianolis, when released from the hospital, will undertake a rehabilitation program at the Chicago Rehabilitation Center. The process could take up to three months.

A special fund has been set up to help defray hospital and rehabilitation costs. Donations can be mailed to: The John Gianolis Fund, Bank of Ravenswood, 1845 W. Lawrence Ave., Chicago 60625.

Antioch Woman One Of Two Kenosha County D.U.I.s

by PATTY KOROM

Drunken driving arrests were few and far between in Lake County and Kenosha Counties during the New Year's holiday.

Out of the two drunk driving arrests made in Kenosha County however, one was an Antioch woman.

Kathleen Vestuto, 33, of Antioch, was charged with drunk driving and excessive speed due to road conditions at 9:21 on Jan. 1.

According to the Kenosha County Sheriff's Police, Vestuto lost control of her vehicle going around an icy curb and crashed into the home of Stefan Stoka at 238th Ave. and 82nd St. in Bristol, Wisc.

According to the patrolman's report, Vestuto refused to take a breathalyzer test.

NICC's Ice Fishing Derby And Winter Carnival Set

by PATTY KOROM

Over 8,000 ice fishermen from throughout Illinois are expected to participate in the 27th annual Chain 'O Lakes Ice Fishing Derby and Winter Festival on Feb. 14 and 15.

The derby, sponsored by the Illinois Conservation Club, the Illinois Department of Conservation, the State Bank of Antioch, Coca Cola Bottling Co. of Chicago, and Budweiser will provide entertainment for the whole family.

Over 4,000 fish of all kinds will be tagged for the derby. State Bank of Antioch will sponsor 500 of the tagged fish for $25 apiece.

Hourly fishing prizes awarded throughout the derby will total over $5,000 according to an Illinois Conservation Club spokesman.

Headquarters for the derby will be on Channel Lake with satellites on Petite and Pistakee lakes.

The festival is not only for fishermen, there will be a variety of family games played at each of the sites. Food will be available at various establishments and at the different stations throughout the derby.

Registrations for the ice fishing derby are being taken at local resorts, including Wasz's Resort in Antioch, Pink Harrison's Resort in McHenry, and Kempf's Resort in Antioch. Many area bait and tackle shops are taking registrations and registration forms can be picked up from any Illinois Conservation Club member.

A Novice's Outlook On Local Ice Fishing Strategy

by PATTY KOROM

There are those fishermen out there that would like to make you believe that ice fishing is as normal as other outdoor winter sports, like skating, sledding or snowmobiling.

And maybe it is, if one can brave the bitter cold, sit for hours in a hut with the wind blowing in your face, and have the patience it takes to catch a fish.

The sport of ice fishing is relatively new to some people and the education received from local fishermen on Channel Lake concerning the 'art' of ice fishing is interesting to say the least.

In a short conversation, one can learn the difference between a spike, wiggler, maggot, and a waxie, all live baits used in the freezing waters. These particular baits are used according to one local fisherman, "because they move around a lot in cold water, the fish are real slow this time of year."

Other fishermen believe that jigs are the only way to catch fish this time of year, it's a matter of preference. It probably comes down to the choice of picking up something that crawls and is slimy or using a man-made reproduction of something that crawls and is slimy. Many would choose the jigs.

The rod used for ice fishing does not look like an ordinary rod. It does however, resemble the Popeil's Pocket Fisherman that was advertised on television some years ago. Maybe ice fishing doesn't require a long rod because you do have to sit almost on top of the hole that has been drilled in the ice.

Speaking of holes in the ice. Can you believe the size of the augers it takes to drill the ice? The augers work well, they provide fishermen with nice, neat little holes to pull their fish from. One note of caution about these holes, be careful where you walk if you're in an ice fishing area, these holes are just the right size for a foot or leg to get caught in.

Veteran fishermen, at least those on Channel Lake, seem to know where the good areas are to catch fish. One fisherman, obviously serious about catching fish said, "sure you know where they are, see those guys over there, they're new at this and they probably won't catch a thing. It's a bad area."

A closer look at those 'guys over there' revealed twice as many fish as the other guys. So much for knowing where the fish are.

The clothing worn by ice fisherman varies from snowmobile suits to down parkas and arctic boots. One thing for sure is that it is all warm.

The reasons that these men get together on the ice are reasonable enough. One man said, "it's a good place to make friends." Another, "there's a lot of comradery out here, we get together, fish, drink a few beers and have fun."

All of the fishermen have one thing in common. They are all preparing for the upcoming ice derby in February trying new bait, new poles, old bait and old poles and planning for the big event.

Hold Boating Class At GCHS

Chain-O-Lakes Power Squadron, a unit of United States Power Squadrons, has announced the spring 1987 class of public boating.

The class will be taught by the members of the local Chain-O-Lakes Power Squadron, in hopes of sharing their knowledge of the rules of the road and general safe boating skills. The instruction is free. There is a nominal charge for optional material.

The class of public boating will be held at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 3, at Grant High School in Fox Lake. No pre-registration is required for this class. Attendance the first night will include registration.

Phase One Economic Development Reviewed

by PATTY KOROM

Phase one of the extensive renovation planned for Antioch's downtown area has been completed, according to Michael Warren, past chairman of the redevelopment committee.

The committee's new chairman, Al Little, will take over at the next scheduled meeting.

During phase one of the project, the redevelopment committee met a number of times with the Chamber of Commerce and the planning and zoning commission, to determine how to best implement the proposed changes.

The east side of Main St. was re-zoned from B-3 to B-2, a move that would offer protection to the store owners in the event a non-retail business would try to locate in the area.

The first project on the agenda for phase one was the installation of a parking area behind the stores on the east side of Main St.

Property for the lot itself was purchased by the committee.

The Antioch Rotary Club donated land for a park and a pedestrian accessway between the new parking lot and Main St.

After the asphalt was laid for the parking area and spaces stripped, new overhead lights were installed.

The exterior of the building next to the pedestrian accessway was completely renovated and now houses Bran Nuts Co.

The committee has been busy 'in house' this past year. After interviewing 36 applicants the redevelopment committee and the village board decided to hire Donald Davis as Antioch's Development Director.

One half of Davis's time will be spent working specifically on the redevelopment project and half with the village.

Davis holds a bachelor's degree and a master's degree in Community Development and Public Administration and has many years experience working in community development. Davis will begin his new job in early Jan.

The first thing awaiting Davis, Little, and the committee, according to Warren, "Will be to review phase one of the redevelopment project and begin to plan for phase two."

Concerning the continuation of the project for 1987, Warren said, "The pace of improvements will pick up. We will continue to see a growing and healthy central business district in Antioch."

About Wild Husband

Dynamics Plans Musicales

"Moods Musical" with a setting in the Blue Note Cabaret, will be Gerry Traxler's Choral Dynamics presentation for the 18th annual winter musicale.

The extravaganza of great song hits will be presented Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 17 and 18, at Libertyville High School Auditorium.

The show opens with

"We've Got A Show For You," presented by the 95-member mixed chorus. A variety of choral numbers, solo and specialty numbers, are under the direction of Traxler, who started the nonprofit organization 18 years ago.

Favorite choral numbers include "Solitude," "The Nearness of You," "Lullaby of Birdland," "I Got Plenty of Nuffin'" and "Didn't We."

Scottish Society To Fete Poet

The Elgin Scottish Society will hold its 82nd annual Robert Burns Banquet on Saturday, Jan. 24, at St. Andrew's Country Club, Rte. 59 half-mile north of Rte. 64 (North Ave.) in West Chicago. Honoring the birth of Burns, Scotland's foremost poet, the full Scottish evening will begin with social hour (cash bar) at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m. The program for the evening will include the songs and poetry of Burns, Highland dancing, the Chicago Highlander Pipe Band and dancing to the Chicago Continentals. Tickets are $24 per person and may be reserved by calling (312) 439-2228.

Loaded Stone

The first known magnets were hard black stones called lodestones - stones which the ancient Greeks knew could attract iron.

Music Inst. Plans Open House

The Music Institute of Lake Forest invites friends in the community to an open house highlighting "Early Childhood" music programs. The open house will take place Saturday, Jan. 17, from 1 to 3 p.m. in the studios of the Institute in Dougherty Hall, on the campus of Barat College, Westleigh and Sheridan Rd., Lake Forest.

Continuous music programs throughout the afternoon will allow parents and children to observe Orff classes, Suzuki violin and piano classes, and traditional piano and violin instruction.

The Orff system of teaching is a hands-on musical experience for young children of all abilities. Combining movement, rhythm, instrumental play and singing, it helps the child discover the many ways he/she is a musical being.

These demonstrations will illustrate how a music student matures as he develops musical skills and understanding and can move from this early Orff training to Suzuki instruction or to traditional forms of instrumental teaching.

On hand to answer questions regarding their programs will be faculty members Shellie Kerns Robbins, director of the Orff program; Andrea Schreiber and Kathy Weaver, teachers of Suzuki violin; Anne Costello and Edith Auner, traditional piano teachers; and Domnica Lungu, traditional violin teacher.

As part of the afternoon's activities, video tapes will be shown demonstrating other music programs used both in the U.S. and in other countries.

The Music Institute also offers instruction in voice and in all orchestral instruments for music students of all ages. Board members and faculty members will be on hand to answer questions and to greet guests over refreshments.

For further information call (312) 295-2135. Registrations are now being accepted for the 16-week term beginning Feb. 2.

The Jan. 17 open house is open to the public free of charge.

Plan 2nd Birthday

Continuing the theme of "Friends and Family," the Libertyville School of Fold and Old Time Music will sponsor a second concert and dance to celebrate its 12th birthday. The musical party will be at 8 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 17 at the American Legion Hall, 715 N. Milwaukee Ave., Libertyville.

Fishing Derby Set Feb. 14, 15

Traditionally the largest event of its kind, the annual Northern Illinois Conservation Club's Chain O'Lakes Ice Fishing Derby and Winter Festival has been scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 14 and 15. This will be the 27th year that this event, expected to draw up to 10,000 people, will be held.

The fishing derby will be sponsored by NICC, the Ill. Dept. of Conservation, the State Bank of Antioch, Coca Cola and Budweiser.

The ice fishing derby always supplies a weekend of outdoor winter entertainment for the entire family with thousands of fishermen trying to win prizes by catching one of the 4,000 tagged fish, 500 of which, sponsored by the State Bank, will bring $25 each to successful fishermen.

Many games have been planned and refreshments will be available at different points on the Chain.

Again Channel Lake will be the spot where the derby headquarters will be located with other official spots on Pistakee and Petite Lakes.

Area resorts will be taking derby registrations. Registration forms can be gotten from any member of the NICC.

Designated registrars are both Kempf's and Wasz's Resort, Antioch; Harrison's Resort, McHenry and area bait and tackle shops.

Schedule Show

The Puppet Place, one of the oldest puppet theatres in the midwest, will present a musical version of Beatrix Potter's "Peter Rabbit" on Sunday, Jan 18 at 2 p.m. at the Libertyville High School Theater, 708 W. Park Ave., Libertyville.

The first of 1987's children's concerts sponsored by the David Adler Cultural Center, this production of "Peter Rabbit" is for preschoolers through third graders.

Ray Nelson, artistic director of the Puppet Place, is a teacher, consultant and master puppeteer. He was awarded an Emmy for "The Magic Door" in 1975, and has also received two Golden Camera Awards for his work in collaboration with McDonald's Corp.

Admission is $3 for adults, $2.50 for members and $2 for children.

The David Adler Cultural Center, 1700 N. Milwaukee Ave., Libertyville, is a non-profit organization. For information call (312) 367-0707.

Winter Weekend At Abbey Means Ice Carnival

Enjoy the great outdoors and winter fun at the Abbey Resort on Lake Geneva during Winter Carnival time, Jan. 16-18. Numerous events and activities have been planned throughout the weekend. Guests may watch and judge the ice sculpture contest where chefs from local resorts and hotels compete against chefs from Milwaukee and Chicago hotels.

There will be ice fishing contests and softball, along with tournaments on ice and shuffleboard.

Guests may compete in creating snow sculptures or just enjoy watching this event take place. Additional outdoor fun offered will be sleigh rides and hay rides as well as cross country skiing and ice skating.

The Winter Carnival weekend package is available from $76.50 per person per night double occupancy. Gratuities, state and local taxes are additional. The package includes a deluxe appointed guest room, dinner in the Monaco Dining Room, breakfast (brunch if Sunday) the following morning, use of the pool and health club facilities, two lines of bowling and use of the fit trail.

Indoor activities, during the Winter Carnival, will be the ever-popular arts and crafts show on Saturday and Sunday. Bowling, dart and billiard tournaments will be held in the recreation center; also exercise and dance classes along with disco dancing on Saturday night.

There will be a pancake and omelette breakfast on Saturday and Sunday morning and snack foods and hot winter drinks all day long. A bonfire will be held late Saturday afternoon, and a one and two-mile fun run on Sunday morning.

The Milwaukee Polar Bears will do their favorite activity on Sunday at noon, swimming in the Abbey Harbor. All of this and much more will be happening at the Abbey during Winter Carnival Weekend, Jan. 16-18.

For more detailed information and reservations, call the Abbey Resort on Lake Geneva: from Wisconsin, (414) 275-6811; from Chicago, (312) 368-8515; or toll-free, (800) 558-2405.

Schedule Soccer Sign-Up

The Lindenhurst Recreation Dept. will hold registration for the youth soccer league at the Lindenhurst Village Hall on the following dates: Friday, Jan. 16 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, Jan. 17 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.; Friday, Jan. 23 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.; and Saturday, Jan. 24 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

For more information call Suzi Schmidt at (312) 356-6011.

Expo's Coming Eminent

It's countdown time for Bridal Expo '87, Lakeland's biggest wedding extravaganza of 1987 and reservations can be made for the Sunday, Jan. 18 event by calling Debbie's Floral in Mundelein at (312) 949-4454.

Admission is free and tickets for both reserved and non-reserved seating can be picked up at the door of the Holiday Inn in Gurnee, the site of two bridal fashions shows and two casualwear style shows.

The big event is sponsored by Lakeland Newspapers and Debbie's Floral. Bridal fashions will be from Milady's Bridal, Bannockburn, and Gingiss Formalwear in Waukegan. Resortwear, to be shown around the Inn's pool, will be from the Hawaiian Shop, Evanston.

Free bridal consultations will be available from the professionals in wedding planning who will have booths at the show.

The grand prize to be awarded at the bridal show is a seven-day cruise for one to the Caribbean or Mexico from Carnival Cruise Lines. Another lucky grand prize winner will walk away with two round trip tickets to anywhere in the domestic U. S. A., valued at $700 a ticket, on American Airlines. Another prize will be Carefree Vacation's seven-day trip to Cancun or Jamaica for one person, air fare and hotel accommodations. The last two will be given away at the brunch-shows.

The prizes were arranged through Latest Travel Dimensions, Ltd.

Reservations for the Hawaiian Brunch, to be served at both 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. around the pool during the resortwear style shows, at $12 per person, can be made by calling (312) 336-6300.

At 10 a.m. the doors will open, exhibits and wedding seminars will start then.

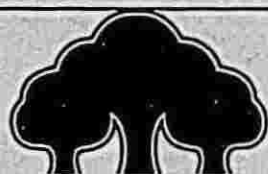

The first Hawaiian Brunch Resortwear Fashion Show will take place around the pool and at 1 p.m. The first bridal style show will take place in the banquet room. Also at 1 p.m., there will be another brunch-fashion show around the pool and the final bridal show will be at 2:15 p.m.

Entertainment and prize awarding will fill up the rest of the day until the show closes at 5 p.m.

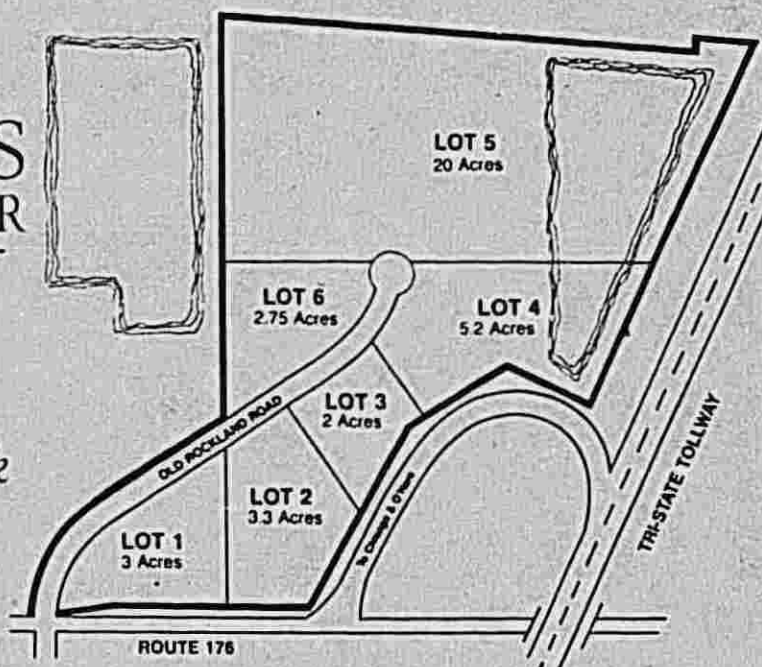

The event may turn out to be a real family affair as word is that Eddie, Bauer's (of Eddie's Parkway in Libertyville) entire family will be involved in the fashion shows.

Fox Lake Seeks Beauty Queens

Applications are now being accepted from local residents, ages three to 21, for the Fox Lake Area Beauty and Talent Pageant which will be held April 3 and 4 at Holiday Park in Ingleside.

Participants may compete in beauty or talent, or both categories, as well as a photogenic contest to name Fox Lake's 1987 "Cover Girl." Contestants will be divided into the following age divisions: Little Miss (three to eight); Junior Miss (nine to 12); Teen Miss (13 to 15); and Miss (16 to 21). Boys, in the same age division, are encouraged to compete in the talent portion of the show.

All participants will appear in a fashion show, with fashions provided by Emphasis Boutique in Fox Lake, and The Dance Factory Annex in Mundelein, on Saturday, March 14 at Holiday Park. Winners from previous years will also appear in the fashion show and be on hand to crown and congratulate the new 1987 royalty in April.

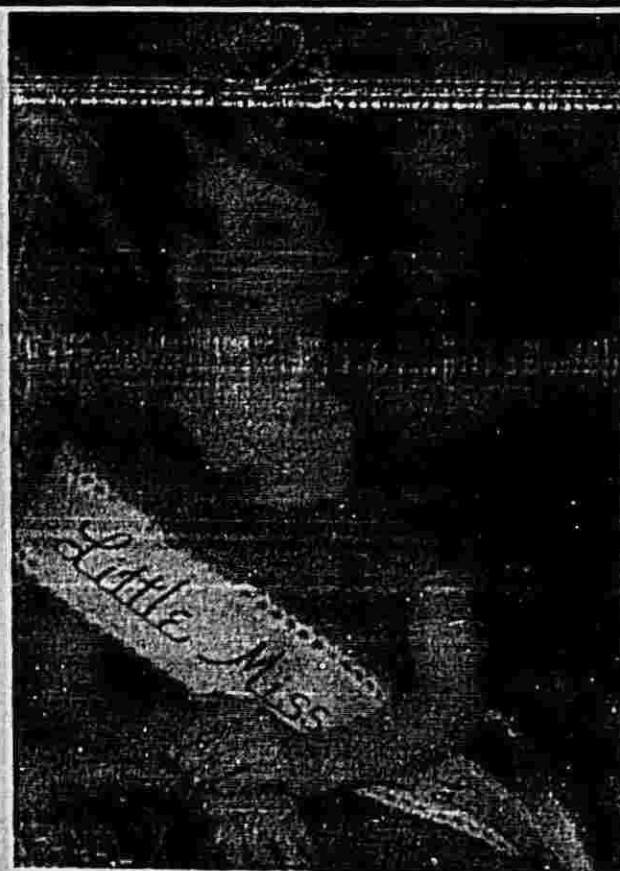

The reigning Fox Lake Royalty includes: Donna Appel, Miss Fox Lake; Julie Schaudt, Senior Talent; Bridget Uhwat, Teen Miss Fox Lake; Cindy Sullivan, Teen Talent; Jackie McGinnis, Junior Miss Fox Lake; Stacy McBreen, Junior Talent; Meghan Fidler, Little Miss Fox Lake and Little Talent and Holly Herbert, the 1986 Fox Lake Cover Girl.

Winners of the April event, in both the beauty and talent categories, will receive $100 cash, as well as beautiful crowns, banners, trophies and their entry fees paid to the Illinois State Stars of Tomorrow Beauty and Talent Pageant, which will be held in Springfield in June. First alternates will receive a $50 cash prize and trophies and second alternates will be awarded a $25 cash prize and trophies. All participants will receive special awards and age-appropriate gifts and souvenirs.

A special Early Bird award will be given to all contestants whose registrations are completed by Sunday, Feb. 1, and the deadline is Saturday, Feb. 28. All contestants will attend an orientation meeting and photo session from 1 to 4 p.m., Saturday, Feb. 28 at Danceworks on North Rte. 12 in Fox Lake.

For an official entry form and information, contact: Ricki Mandell, Director, Fox Lake Area Beauty and Talent Pageant, P.O. Box 143, Fox Lake, IL 60020; or call (815) 229-1612.

Players Schedule Auditions

The Tempo Players will be holding audition for their upcoming musical production, "The Music Man."

Auditions for this show will be Wednesday, Feb. 18, and Thursday, Feb. 19 at 7:30 p.m. at the Glendale Heights Sports Hub. The Sports Hub is located at 250 E. Fullerton Ave. in Glendale Heights. Callbacks will be held Sunday, Feb. 22 at 3 p.m.

Auditions are open, all roles need to be filled. Those auditioning should come prepared with a song to sing (a song from the show is preferable, but not essential); be familiar with the script and be prepared to read for the part or parts they are interested in. They should also come dressed to do some simple dance movements.

Directed by Verna Esposito of Lisle, this show will take place at Glenbard North High School on the following dates: Saturday, April 25 at 8 p.m.; Sunday, April 26 at 2:30 p.m.; Friday, May 1 at 8 p.m.; Saturday,

May 2 at 8 p.m.; and Sunday, May 3 at 2:30 p.m.

For more information on auditions, or for information on how to get tickets to see "The Music Man," call Tempo Players at (312) 345-0987 between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m.

They Oughta Listen

When superstitious seamen refused to sail on Friday, the British government decided to show them how stupid their superstitions were. They laid the keel of a new vessel on Friday, named her the H.M.S. Friday, and sent her off to sea on Friday. Neither ship nor crew was ever heard of again.

Lynn Lambert, a freshman at McMurray College and resident of Gurnee, is a member of the college's Highland Dance Squad.

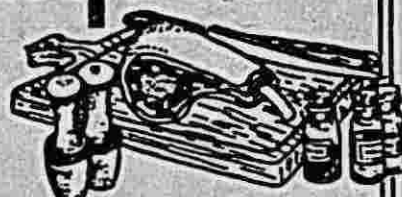

The 14-member unit, which makes frequent half-time appearances at MacMurray's home football and basketball games, is known for its enthusiastic and upbeat dance routines.

Lambert, a 1986 graduate of Warren Twp. High School, is majoring in business administration at MacMurray. She is the daughter of Doris Lambert.

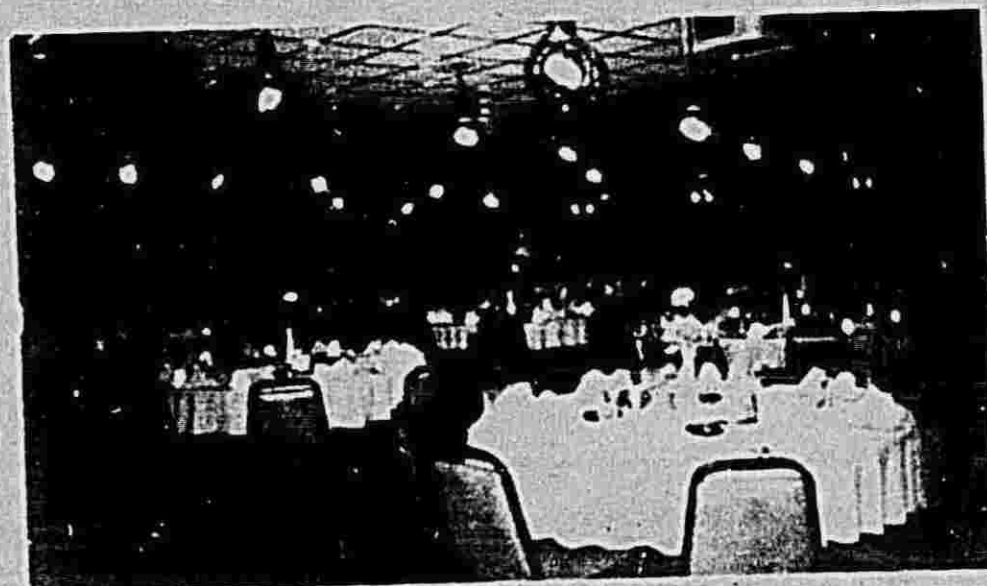

Steiskal

Pvt. Dale T. Steiskal, a 1986 graduate of Antioch High School, has graduated as an armor crewman at the U.S. Army Armor School, Fort Know, Ky. The training was conducted under the one station unit training (OSUT) program, which combines basic combat training and advanced individual training into one 13-week period. During the course, students received training in the duties of a tank crewman, including firing the tank's armament and small weapons. Instruction was also given in field radio operations, map reading, and tank maintenance and repair.

Diet And Exercise Work Hand In Hand

Dieting can be hard for many people, but it doesn't really take up that much time. If you're willing to make the effort of cutting back on calories, why not make a little extra investment in your diet and spend some time exercising.

In one eight-week study, volunteers lost an average of seven pounds while just dieting and more than six pounds while just exercising. That's good—but the volunteers who dieted and exercised simultaneously, lost more than 13 pounds in those eight weeks, a respectable and safe amount.

Some dieters are afraid to exercise because they are worried that their appetites will increase to compensate for the calories burned off in exercise. They may even think their weight will increase because they'll feel hungrier. But none of these fears are likely to be realized, says Irene Green, extension adviser with the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service. "The stress or exertion of a real exercise program, one that is more than a poky walk around the block, may actually decrease food intake—or at the very least, not change it."

Some research indicates that exercise does not usually decrease the amount of a food a person eats, but this doesn't mean that exercise doesn't do any good. "For one thing, some of these studies were on people who tried to lose weight through exercise alone," said Green. "It may well be that exercisers who are allowed to eat all the food they want, don't actually reduce intake. However, researchers who study exercisers who are following a diet plan in which they are allowed to eat freely, generally find that their weight losses are greater than those of people who only diet without exercise.

"Besides, even if the exertion of your exercise program doesn't change the amount of food you eat, you might still lose weight because of the calories burnt in exercise," Green continued. "And even if your scale reads the same as always, you've probably lost some fat but gained some weight as muscle."

"That change is for the better, because muscle tissue is what makes you look healthier and better. And since muscle tissue takes up less room than fat, your body will have 'shrunk' even if you weigh the same as before."

To dieters, losing weight is better than staying the same, and some other studies indicate exercise makes that easier. "The eight-week study cited above is clearly part of this research. Those men exercised vigorously for an hour a day, five days a week. In many similar studies, the amount of exercise it takes to get good results is also quite substantial. Even when food intakes were left up to the individuals, one study found that women in a walking program lost an average of 22 pounds in a year."

But now for the not-so-good-news—the average time they spent walking every day was two hours. "The research was on exercise alone, not on a combination of diet and exercise." So there were no records of food intake in the study; but if thoughts of the huge investment of time the women were making helped them resist overeating, so much the better."

Too many people go back to their old ways of eating and not exercising when they go off a program, so their weight goes back up to the original level—or more! But even if their weight is the same, they're "fatter" than before.

"When you consume fewer calories than you use—that is, when you diet—those needed calories are taken not only from fat tissue but from muscle as well. But if you gain the weight back, it's gained back as fat and not as muscle, so the ratio of fat to muscle is higher than before."

"The body is a higher percentage of fatty tissue than it was before the diet; and that is why 'yo-yo dieting,' in which weight goes up and down over and over again, is bad for a person. Each time the person gains the weight back, the body becomes more fatty and less muscular."

Green says exercise can minimize the amount of muscle tissue lost during dieting, so more of the weight is lost in the form of fat. "At the end of a program in which exercise is included, you'll have a healthier body, with more muscle kept than if you only cut back on calories," says Green. "In fact, you'll probably have more muscle than before because of the way exercise builds muscles up—so your body will be doubly healthy."

But for exercise to have much of an effect, a dieter will have to work at it. Those who are not accustomed to exercise or exertion should get a physical check-up before starting a program to make sure they can handle prolonged or vigorous exercise. When starting a walking program, for example, it might be smart to work up gradually to an hour or so a day.

"You don't need to start out running marathons,"

Green said. "Start slowly, taking care not to hurt yourself or over it."

Jocks Like Politics With Flavor Of GOP

by JOHN STEINKE

With the media mentioning former professional quarterback Jack Kemp, now a New York Congressman, as a 1988 Republican presidential contender, his candidacy has awakened an ancient discussion about the politics of our athletic gods. For a long time people interested in social phenomena have been wondering why athletes are generally attracted to the Republican Party. There has been much speculation about the "GOP jock bloc."

Steinke On Politics

The subject has never seemed to be of any great interest to the sports writing fraternity, whose members may or may not have some good answers to the question. You find the speculation in non-sports magazines and by writers who have very little to do with sports events.

Ten years ago, for example, Family Weekly had a brief reference under the heading, "Why are college athletes generally Republican conservatives?" The article quoted from James Michener, who published a book on "Sports in America" for Random House. Here is Michener's observation:

"The athlete and his coach move in a world of conservative values and are surrounded by conservative types. Very few Democrats among the alumni have private jets or good jobs to dispense or the spare cash to endow athletic scholarships or build press boxes so that university 'can really go big time.' Also, coaches know that conservative, hard-nosed procedures pay off. For every hotshot newcomer who throws passes all over the place, there are 10 tough old buzzards like Woody Hayes and Bear Bryant who work on the system of four yards, a cloud of dust and a bucket of blood. They're the ones who remain in coaching 'til their mid-sixties."

Michener also quotes another authority on the subject. Rich Sortun, himself a jock who played varsity football at the University of Washington and later in the National League. Here is Sortun's assessment: "You are subtly channeled into an educational rut. Your advisors suggest fairly simple courses, like physical education or business. The practices leave you too tired to study more than what you need to get by. You're definitely too tired to think on your own. You're told to be suspicious of hippies and radicals. You end up avoiding the associations—the intellectual give-and-take with people of various philosophies—that are really as much college education as what you learn in the classroom.

Most coaches are overwhelmingly conservative and Republican in their outlooks. It might be well to take a look at current evidence and some in the recent past. The late coach Bear Bryant, the creator of the miracles of Alabama's Crimson Tide, stood up at political rallies and endorsed GOP presidential nominees: Jerry Ford (1976) and Ronald Reagan (1980). In 1980, some Ohio Republicans asked former coach Woody Hayes to run against Democratic Senator John Glenn. Hayes is a Republican with strong views and statewide recognition for his patriotic speeches on the American way. He coached Ohio state's superteams for 28 years. Before his Columbus goodbye to coaching in 1978, Hayes was famous for turving his cap over a bad play or bullying a photographer out-of-his 205-lbs. weight path. He was finally fired for slugging a Clemson linebacker who made the mistake of intercepting an OSU-Gator Bowl pass and running it back along Woody's sideline. Hayes passed up the opportunity to oppose John Glenn, who had been the first U.S. astronaut to orbit the earth.

John Erickson, former University of Wisconsin and general manager of the Milwaukee Bucks, was an unsuccessful GOP candidate for the U.S. Senate in 1970. He was crushed under a landslide vote for Democratic Sen. Bill Proxmire. In 17 seasons, Oklahoma coach "Bud" Wilkinson's football teams won at 83.3 percent rate. The record was 145 games won, four ties, 29 losses. The Sooners won the Big Eight conference championship 13 times, and were national champions three times: 1950, 1955 and 1956. From 1953 to 1957, Wilkinson's Sooners won 47 games in a row—the longest winning streak in college football history. He quit coaching at Oklahoma to make an unsuccessful run for the U.S. Senate in 1964, losing to Democrat Fred Harris.

Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz and Dallas Cowboys coach Tom Landry filmed tv spots for GOP North Carolina Sen. Jesse Helms' reelection bid. Helms led the opposition fight against declaring Dr. Martin Luther King's birthday a national holiday. The issue of racism was raised against the two coaches. Holtz's television testimonials to "the brilliant record" of Helms hastened his departure from the University of Arkansas. He apologized, dropped out-of-sight, and then became coach of the Minnesota Golden Gophers. Last year, Holtz assumed the coaching duties at the world's most prestigious football factory—Notre Dame.

We should assume that neither Holtz nor Landry are racists. Yet, they endorsed Sen.

Helms whose record suggests that he believes in slavery rather than segregation. A little black humor, Senator!! But a fundamental question remains unanswered: Why do black athletes play football for two Jesse Helms' disciples? Are they willing to abandon their roots and history for the gold and the glory? Finally, Sports Illustrated has named Penn State football coach Joe Paterno as the 1986 "Sportsman of the Year." If George Bush becomes president, he owes a political debt to Joe Paterno. In 1980, Coach Paterno campaigned vigorously for George Bush against Ronald Reagan in the Pennsylvania presidential primary. Bush's victory in the keystone state persuaded the Gipper to nominate the Trilateral Commission's candidate for vice-president. Won't it be wonderful for the country when we elect a 60-year Boy Scout to the presidency?

Popular Clown, Moose Member Dies Jan. 1

by RUSS FAIRCHILD

Antioch's Loyal Order of Moose Lodge 525 is saddened by the passing of one of its prominent members in the personage of Fred Beckman, sometimes president of Antioch's ABC (Always Better Clowns) Clown Club.

"Now, when we enter this world, we are all supposed to have some sort of destiny to fulfill. It may not make itself known immediately, and with some it may never seem to come.

Thus it was with our Fred, because later on in life, it finally became evident that he possessed a rare quality of charm and comic ability that entertained people.

In so doing, he became a clown to make people happy, and as he once told me, the benefits he and the other clowns received were ample reward for their efforts.

Fred portrayed several roles—among them "Twiggy" and "Ollie" (Oliver Hardy). His mannerisms and remarkable resemblance to the latter was unique. Along with him, at times, was a 13-member clown troupe. To name just a few: Bobbi and Ken Knackstedt as "Gumdrop" and "Cornflakes," respectively; Jean Malinowski as "Crackpot" and Don Kenimer.

They became quite popular, and well-received at hospitals, picnics, carnivals, circuses and senior centers throughout the "bi-states," to bring much needed love and laughter, mixed with cheer, where it was sorely needed. May God bless them!

Most of you readers will, no doubt, also recall pleasant moments and memories whenever Fred and the troupe appeared, such as times when he made his colorful entrance as Santa Claus, waving and nodding to "Ho-Ho-Ho" in the annual parade down Main St.

In the same vein, Fred's charitable nature also surfaced several years ago at Christmas, when in his same role as "Old Saint Nick," he not only braved the cold to welcome all the "small fry" to his unheated "North Pole Palace," but turned right around and donated his $100 salary check to charity. (And believe me, he could ill afford it.)

Now, folks, sad to relate, all the above came to a peaceful end on New Year's Day, when this beloved Moose member, finally joined a master clown he had always idolized—Emmett Kelly... "Send in the Clowns."

So long, Fred. We'll all truly miss you and your special qualities. You've paid your dues.

Waterway Agency Gets New Headquarters

by PATTY KOROM

The Chain of Lakes-Fox River Water Agency held an emergency meeting Jan. 2 to discuss the possibility of leasing larger quarters.

The Agency voted to lease office space at 64 E. Grand Ave. in Fox Lake in order to provide adequate space for engineers to meet, map layout space conference areas, and planning sessions.

According to John Soffietti, spokesman for the group, more work will need to be done in order for the Agency to move their furnishings in.

The Agency will use the new quarters on E. Grand as administrative offices, and intend to keep it's current space in the Lake County Sheriff's Water Patrol building at 703 N. Rte. 12 in Fox Lake.

The Chain of Lakes-Fox River Waterway Agency's multi-million dollar dredging program is scheduled to begin this year.

Letter To The Editor:

Grass Is Greener

Editor,

My sister and I bought a home in Antioch and moved here from Chicago in September. It has been more than twenty five years since we lived in the area.

I guess the first difference between a small town and the city came to me on Sunday afternoons, when the buzz of most of the lawn mowers on the block drifted in our windows. The fragrance of freshly cut grass filling the air was a welcome change from the pollution we had grown accustomed to in the city.

Football played in the streets is unique to a small town as well. Even the side streets in Chicago have too much traffic to accommodate a game. It should be noted, the players emerged from their homes after the Bears game.

We have the friendliest neighbors here. People from across the street introduced themselves and offered help before we moved in. Since then there was a "welcome to the neighborhood" party, where we had the opportunity to meet the people on our block. I lived in my Chicago condo twelve years and the first party for the entire building came when I was moving. Too bad we didn't have time to socialize earlier, we had some nice neighbors there too, but everyone was too busy to notice.

We went to the local theater and saw a first rate production of "Bell, Book and Candle". We called for reservations the day of the performance and picked up our $4.50 tickets at the box office that evening. The last play I saw in Chicago was "Cats," which I thoroughly enjoyed but the tickets were reserved months in advance at a whopping cost of $40.00.

I love strolling through our back yard, looking at the moon and stars under a clear sky. There is no city smog blocking the view. City people don't know the pleasures of walking on a moonlit night without the benefit of a flashlight or streetlights.

The drivers here are a little different. In Chicago, if there was an inch break in the traffic, you gunned your engine and got out there. Here, they have whole blocks of space and don't go. When we first came I'd shout words of encouragement to them. I'd say, "Are you going to wait for every car in Antioch go by?" I have learned to wait and better yet, I have learned to be patient.

Halloween here was a treat for us. In the city there is the danger of some nut poisoning candy or putting glass in apples and mothers there had parties for their children rather than allowing them to go trick or treating. We had visits from ghosts, goblins, devils, doctors and clowns. Too many costumed creatures to count. It was so much fun and it reminded us of our childhood. We are happy it's safe here for the children.

In the city I had a job near O'Hare airport, which was eleven miles and thirty five-stop lights from home. My commuting time was forty minutes or more. Now that I work in Antioch, my commuting time can be as much as four minutes but usually three and a half, if I miss the only stop light in town.

Another of the charms of Antioch is the drive down Hillside. As I drive home from Orchard and Hillside Streets I relish the twinkling lights, sparkling from the multi-leveled hills on the north side of town. I pause at the stop sign half way down, longer than necessary just to savor the view.

In the city I lived near a small park and I saw many dog walkers with their dogs. I saw a few squirrels and black birds and many pigeons. Here I have seen many squirrels, wrens, blue jays, robins, sparrows, ducks and geese flying south. We have a chipmunk who lives in our back yard and a couple of dogs and cats pass through the yard on their rounds.

When I was younger I loved the hustle, bustle of the city, but as I grow older I appreciate the quiet, peaceful life in a small town. I guess we are here to stay. Thank you Antioch for welcoming us.

Prairie Council Gives Awards To Girl Scouts

Harriet Sarlo of Des Plaines was honored at Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council's annual recognition dinner. Sarlo received a lifetime membership in Girl Scouts U.S.A. for her 10 years of volunteer work as chairman of the annual Girl Scout cookie sale. The council's cookie committee presented the award, commending her for "lifetime dedication to Girl Scouting." Mrs. Sarlo has already received the Thanks Badge, highest national award in Girl Scouting. Sarlo's long-time friend and committee member, Judy Neville of Niles, said in her commendation, "when her adult Girl Scout career began in her years as a leader, no one suspected that inside that green uniform lurked a champion cookie chairman." During Sarlo's tenure, over five million boxes of cookies were sold by Illinois Prairie girls.

The featured guest speaker at this year's dinner, held at Chevy Chase in Wheeling, was Betty Pillsbury, national president of Girl Scouts U.S.A. In her address to the over 300 volunteers and guests, Pillsbury commended the hours of service and caring donated to girls by dedicated volunteers. She concluded her presentation by stating, "through your involvement the traditions of honesty, service, and good citizenship can take young women into the 21st Century. It is certain to be a century in which the leadership and competencies that they gain from Girl Scouting will be greatly needed."

Armella Kohlhaas, a former resident of Palatine, currently residing in Schaumburg, received the second highest national award, the Appreciation Pin, as did Connie Bearnes, staff member of Illinois Prairie.

Connie Bearnes is the assistant executive director of Illinois Prairie Council. Her loyalty and dedication was exemplified when she unselfishly used her vacation to help a group of Girl Scouts travel to Wyoming. They nearly lost out on the trip because of a shortage of chaperones. Her pin was presented by Gert Schriener, vice president of Illinois Prairie's board of directors, who said of Bearnes: "she is a true-blue believer in the values of Girl Scouting, and as such has inspired countless girls and adults." Bearnes has been a staff member since 1978, starting as resident camp director and now supervising all field, training and program activities for girls and adults. She lives in Elk Grove Village.

During Kohlhaas' many years in Girl Scouting she has held almost every volunteer position, from troop leader to board vice-president. One of her major contributions was the implementing of standards for older girl training and recognition, supporting girls in their efforts toward achieving the prestigious Gold Award. Kohlhaas' nomination states, "she is a constant ambassador of good will for Girl Scouts. She has encouraged others to become active in Scouting by making it fun."

Five volunteers were honored with Certificates of Appreciation at the dinner: Karen Adams, council treasurer from Mt. Prospect; Nancy Cavan, cookie committee incentive chairman from Mt. Prospect; Mary Ellen Haggee, former area coordinator of Schaumburg; Anita Mitchel, chairman of the Silver Trefoil Luncheon from Arlington Heights; and Kay Monroe, area coordinator and troop leader from Elk Grove Village.

Two volunteers received plaques: Peg Baal of Wheeling, Wheeling's Girl Scout coordinator and day camp director; and Richard Lewandowski, staff member of Forest Hospital in Des Plaines, for his volunteer work as a consultant and trainer for Girl Scout summer outreach programs.

Illinois Prairie's "Organizer of the Year" Award went to Shirley Cuthbert of Arlington Heights. At Juliette Low School where Cuthbert serves as a Girl Scout organizer, 68 percent of the girls are Scout members.

Three Girl Scout leaders were named "World's Greatest Leaders" as a result of an essay contest for girls throughout Illinois Prairie's 43 communities.

Kristin Borst of Grayslake wrote the winning composition by a Brownie. She wrote of her leader, Sandy Miller—"I think my leader is the greatest because she is: fun, exciting, brave, adventurous, generous and she is always thinking up new plans for my troop. Why I think she is fun is because she likes kids (I think). Why I think she is exciting is because one time we planted trees in the rain and hiked a lot. Why I think she is brave is because she will not give up. Why she is adventurous is because she likes nature hunts and camping. Why she is generous is because she is always thinking about others and giving. She is always thinking up new ideas for our troop. I like her a lot."

Cadette Nicole Edwards of Gurnee wrote this winning commendation about Madge Buchholz, leader of Troop 74—"My leader, Madge Buchholz, is, by far, the most marvelous leader I have ever had. She has a certain way of encouraging us to do interesting projects that end up being fun to do. She understands people to an extent where she could be a psychiatrist because then she probably wouldn't put as much time as she does into Girl Scouting. At our last campout, we went horseback riding and she, of course, participated. We had a great time. Sometimes, though, she forgets something like taco shells. We were making tacos when she realized she didn't buy them. We all agreed that nobody is perfect and we all make mistakes. Instead of tacos we had taco salad."

The Denoyer Award for excellence in Girl Scouting is given to individuals who best represent the adult Girl Scout volunteer in their own communities. This year's recipients were: Mary Ann Hettich, Antioch; Jeanne Haverick, Gurnee; Beverly Geerds, Ingelside; Kathy Lyman, McHenry; and Pat Nordling, Round Lake.

10 reasons why you should maintain and increase your newspaper advertising when business is slow.

1. Whether business is good or slow, you have to get your share of whatever business is around. Cutting back your advertising puts you at a disadvantage at the very moment when you need an edge. Increasing your advertising gives you the edge.

2. In times of uncertainty, consumers are careful and a little reluctant to spend. They want to be sure before they buy; they want information about products, services, prices and values. The best source is newspaper advertising. Yours—or somebody else's.

3. Maybe you figure other retailers in your line are going to cut back their advertising, so it's safe for you, too. Right? Wrong. You're in competition for the customer's dollar with very other retailer in town, no matter what he or she sells. People have only so many dollars to spend and if they don't spend them for what you sell they'll spend them for something else.

4. There are more people working now than ever before. More women working, too, adding to the family income. People still need and want goods and services and will spend for them. There is plenty of business out there. Your competitors will be bidding for their share—and yours.

5. You can't do much about most factors in the marketplace: rent, labor cost, price or merchandise, what the competition will do. But one thing you do control is your own promotion. Remember that newspaper advertising is not just a cost of doing business. It's a proven sales tool that returns many times your investment in store traffic and sales.

6. Remember how long it took you to get started? Once you build up a business, you can keep it going with a moderate, consistent advertising program. But if you cut your advertising and lose your hold on the public's awareness you'll find it's much harder to build it up again. It's sort of like starting all over.

7. Your advertising is part of your sales force. Newspaper ads help to pre-sell the customers and help you close the sale faster. What saves you time saves you money.

8. You say your customers know you and for a while at least they'll keep coming in even if you don't promote? That's partly true, but shortsighted. Remember, one out of five Americans moves every year. So there's a steady flow of your customers out of your market, and a corresponding influx of new folks who don't know you at all. Tell them about yourself.

9. Here's a hard fact to chew on. Over any given period, a business that advertises below the industry average has sales that are below the industry average.

10. Advertising is "news" — about products and services. Your customers look for this kind of news in the pages of Lakeland Newspapers. In plush times, retailers often experiment with other media. But when the going gets tough, they concentrate their efforts in the newspaper because it provides an immediate payoff at the cash register.

CALL YOUR LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES. WE'LL HELP YOU PLAN A PROGRAM THAT WILL PAY DIVIDENDS IN ADDITIONAL STORE TRAFFIC AND INCREASED SALES.

Chemistry Was Right, Timing Was All Wrong

by CHARLES JOHNSTON
Managing Editor

Since 1978, about the only homes that were built in the ambitious Mariner's Cove development were those built as a class project by the Lake County Area Vocational School. That is, until about a year ago.

Located in the tiny village of Third Lake on the north side of Rte. 120 just east of the College of Lake County, the concept for the project was developed in the mid-70's by the then local realtor, Lee Fry. After two years of work and planning, the project was ready to go in 1978.

Carol Drygas, who was the residential sales manager for Fry at the time, recalls that "we started our marketing in 1978, just as interest rates started eking up and the economy took a downturn."

Drygas said the plan was a good one, but that the timing just wasn't right on it. "Lee (Fry) had a lot of vision and personally developed the concept with all the covenants, conditions and restrictions," she said. "Interestingly, even now as the project is finally taking off, it is being developed as Lee Fry originally planned it. I think that shows that it was a good plan to start with."

Attempts to contact Fry, who has an office in Westmont now, were unsuccessful. According to Drygas, he is now representing commercial and industrial developments, which is a return to his roots in the business.

For two years, Fry tried to market the subdivision, but the economy just kept getting worse. In 1980, Fry turned the development over to the bank and closed his Grayslake office in the process.

"It was a shame," Drygas said. "Every division of the office was making money and doing very well. But Mariner's Cove was so big that it siphoned off money from every division of the company. Of course, it's a beautiful subdivision as people can see now."

Sales responsibility for the project was taken over by Quinlan and Tyson, now Merrill Lynch. Planned to be built in three phases, the project will ultimately have over 800 units. Phase one, which covers 180 units, is now complete and the development is well into the second phase of the project with over 200 homes already built.

"When things started going wrong with the economy, it messed up a lot of plans. Lee found that it was costing him more to develop than he expected. The cost of lending at the time was enormous. He would have had to charge more than what he thought was a fair price for the lots and that bothered him," Drygas said.

"When it is done, it will be one of the nicest subdivisions in the area. Much of phase three involves waterfront property on Third Lake. Of course, since it is all in the Village of Third Lake, that community will find itself a lot larger in a few years," she continued.

"That was one of the nice things about putting it all together - that it was all in Third Lake. For the rest of it, we found ourselves in several overlapping jurisdictions; there were three fire districts involved, for example."

"All the chemistry was right for the project. We didn't go wrong, the economy did," Drygas concluded.

After leaving Fry's office, Drygas went to work at Gilbert Rayner and Assoc. in Mundelein until last year, when she joined Chicago Title and Trust Co. as a sales representative.

Though the project was put on hold for almost a decade, as people watch Mariner's Cove growing, they are seeing Lee Fry's vision manifesting itself even after he has moved on.

Women In Management To Meet

The Lake Suburban Chapter of Women In Management will hold a luncheon meeting beginning at 11:30 a.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 21, at the Landings of Libertyville, 1290 S. Milwaukee Ave. Featured speaker Kathryn Riegler, of Management Skills management development firm, will address the group on "Influencing Others." Cost is $10 for members and $15 for nonmembers. Reservations and remittance may be mailed to Diane Haley, 21299 W. Lakeview Pkwy., Mundelein, 60060; or call her at (414)396-4300 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Good Plan, Bad Time

For years, Mariner's Cove in Third Lake was nearly vacant as the economy took a downturn. Originally conceived by Lee Fry, marketing began in 1978 just as interest rates began to hit the roof. In the last year, the project has taken off. It is being built with the same covenants, conditions and restrictions that Fry put into the original plan.—Photo by Charles Johnston

Drug Debt Factor In Arson Slayings

by GLORIA DAVIS

An alleged $11,000 drug bill, owed to the accused murders by John Ekornaas, one of the victims, was presented as a possible motive at a court hearing on Monday in connection with the New Year's Eve arson murder of two Kenosha men.

The burned bodies of Ekornaas, 19, and Steven D. Kinney, 21, both of Kenosha, were found by the Pleasant Prairie Fire Dept. when they answered a fire call at the Shell Service Station on the east side of Hwy. 1-94 and Hwy. 50 in the early morning hours of Dec. 31.

The bodies of the two victims, found in the back room of the station, were later identified as Ekornaas, and Kinney, who were cousins employed at the station. Ekornaas was the nephew of Kenosha County Sheriff Fred Ekornaas.

Arrested by sheriff's deputies the day after the murders were two other Kenosha youths, Luigi Aiello, 22, and Spriggie N. Hensley, 21.

Both were charged with two counts of first degree murder, robbery and arson and cash bond was set at the highest figure ever ordered in Kenosha County, $1 million each.

A coroner's report has Kinney dying of multiple stab wounds, a slashed neck and head injuries. Ekornaas, whose body showed carbon monoxide poisoning, was evidently still alive when the fire was started and the youths were doused with gasoline and set ablaze. He also suffered many head wounds.

Aiello was also an employee of the station and had called in sick Dec. 31. The possibility arose at the hearing that Aiello and Hensley meant to scare the victims into paying the drug debt and the robbery of the station of $200, first thought to be the motive, may not have been the reason for the killings.

Deputies were led to Aiello because he was working the last time the station was robbed of $400 a few weeks ago, and he gave conflicting answers under questioning. A search of the living quarters of the accused men turned up a pocket knife and bloody clothes besides a heavy instrument that might be a murder weapon.

Although the State of Wisconsin does not have the death penalty, at a press conference earlier, a tearful Sheriff Ekornaas said that this sort of heinous crime calls for the state to establish it, saying the least sentence the guilty should receive is life imprisonment without parole.

The maximum punishment for the charges is life imprisonment plus 70 years. Life imprisonment in Wisconsin with parole can range from 12 to 30 years.

Hospice Honors Six

Saint Therese Medical Center in Waukegan recognized six employees as honorary volunteers for its STAR Hospice Unit.

Waukegan residents Barbara Sexton, admitting; Brian Schneider, dietary; George Barnes, maintenance; Jo Houchin, business office; Jesse Yarborden, environmental services; and Chicago resident John Rotella, safety and security, were among those employees honored at the medical center.

These employees, their supervisors, and the executive team consisting of president, Nora C. O'Malley Fache and vice presidents, Leo Garrison, Al Mansfield, Marguerite Turpel and Bonnie Fremgen, all celebrated the special event with a reception in the Hospice living room.

Saint Therese's STAR Hospice healthcare team is available on a 24-hour, seven day-a-week basis to provide help and care, whether it be in the home or at the medical center.

This particular Hospice unit at Saint Therese is the only full-scale program of its sort in Lake County, including a 10-bed in-house unit, home care and bereavement.

Hitting The Crossroads

The old year has passed and a new one begun. In the Lakeland area, it has been a year of transition.

Our 1986 Superbowl Champion Bears are out of it, having lost the services of star quarterback Jim McMahon to injury. But we can look forward to a healthy revival next fall.

Perhaps the biggest story of 1987 will be the veritable explosion of development that is occurring throughout West Lake County. From Gurnee to Wauconda, Mundelein to Fox Lake, residential and commercial development is spreading like a prairie grass fire. Long predicted by planners and observers, the news is that it's here, folks.

This is the year when neighboring communities will have to get together and decide how to achieve necessary economic growth while preserving enough open space and clean, recreational facilities to maintain the beauty that made the area attractive in the first place.

It looks to be a tough year for taxpayers. The county's budget has soared over $100 million and there are few communities where taxes appear to be headed down. Federal revenue sharing, a tool for providing for the needy since the Nixon years in the White House, appears to have run its course. The loss of that money will have to be made up on the local level, or a lot of poor people will get hurt.

Schools, libraries and park districts, among other taxing bodies, are busy putting together their lists of needs to present to voters on the April ballot. It will be a time of hard decisions.

The county board, in October, finally settled the six-year-old Heartland lawsuit, which had already cost over a million dollars. The bad news is that the board agreed to hook the settlement to approval of a landfill and incinerator to be built at Rte. 83 and Peterson Rd., just a few hundred yards south of the existing ARF Landfill. A citizens' committee has gotten together to fight that proposal. Hearings will begin in January.

It looks to us as if 1987 is going to be a crossroads year for Lake County - a time when all of us will have to make decisions and come to some common ground on what our county should and will be in the next few decades. If we do not make those decisions, outside developers and the big money boys from downtown will be glad to make them for us.

So sit back and enjoy it as the pretenders battle for the Superbowl. Just as soon as their season ends, you can bet that ours will begin. How 1987 comes out depends on how we play it.

Good Place To Be

News that Florida has surpassed Illinois as the nation's fifth most populous state probably didn't come as any surprise to anyone who has vacationed recently in the Sunshine State. Florida's coastal areas are clogged with people where most of its 11.67 million inhabitants live.

Despite a depressed economy, especially in agricultural areas, Illinois population actually has grown since 1980, according to Census Bureau figures, up a modest 126,000 or an increase of 1.1 percent. Illinois population now stands at 11.55 million.

Open space advocates in Lake County, distressed at the onslaught of housing developments, probably feel like all the newcomers have congregated in our locality. In fact, the growth has been pretty well dispersed throughout the Chicago Metropolitan area.

The interesting thing about our modest population gain is that it has been underscored by corresponding economic growth, which, in the opinion of experts, means that the state can sustain its current population level. Louis Masotti, a Northwestern University professor, believes that Illinois will continue to experience modest population growth along with economic growth. This is more than can be said of the rapidly growing states, Florida being a prime example.

All of this means that the Lakeland area still is a good place to live and work, even as more acreage is being skimmed for black dirt with construction to follow.

Listen To The Beat

Local politicians are off and running in the spring municipal election. The running may be more along the lines of pitter patter than a thundering roar, but the footbeats can be heard—if you listen.

That'll be our job in the coming months, listening and watching—and reporting—what we see and hear regarding the politics in our community. We relish this job.

By Jan. 26, the deadline for filing nominating petitions, the cast of participants will be pretty well set. From that point until the first Tuesday of April the political hot stove will be boiling—or at least simmering. This is as good a time as any to wish all the candidates well. We owe the office seekers a debt of gratitude, even the ones we don't think are qualified and the eventual losers. Without them, our local government wouldn't function. Someone has to do the job, which, in our mind, hardly is a glory trip.

The Feeling's Good On Final Chapter Of Holiday Season

by BILL SCHROEDER

There was a time when no holiday season was complete without a family visit to Chicago's Loop to take in the lights, enjoy the window decorations, have dinner at a nice downtown spot and top the whole wonderful experience off with a live stage show and first run movie at a glittering theater.

This columnist, the lady of the house and son Bob chose a Friday night with damp air thick enough to cut with a dull knife to cap the Christmas season with a visit to the Loop. It was going to be my first Yuletide visit to downtown Chicago in about 40 years.

With traffic unusually light, we arrived at a sidestreet parking lot just south of the Wacker St. bridge in about 60 minutes. Turning the corner on State St. for a walking excursion reminded us why Chicago is called the Windy City. I wasn't ready for the "Great St." without cars. But that wasn't as shocking as finding the Chicago Theater dark. No live stage show or movie tonight, I mused as we hiked south. Nothing was as I had remembered the Upper Loop on annual junkets so many years ago. Thankfully, we came upon Marshall Field's. "That clock is a landmark," I motioned cheerfully to Bob. Even after a half century or so, the Field's windows were as they should be—beautifully decorated with animated folk story figures.

State St. was pretty empty. A few teenagers loped from window to window. There were a handful of parents with youngsters in tow. A street preacher was bellowing something about Jesus over a bullhorn. So much for memories. Guess the Salvation Army bellringers don't work nights anymore.

Michigan Ave. looked a lot more Christmasy. Besides, Bob was bent on making the trek to the top of Big John. We found some life at Water Tower Place. Even though the shops were closed, the place was bustling, mostly with young people coming in to get warm, use the washroom and decide where to go next. The John Hancock Observatory was a first for all three of us. Mist pressed in on the windows, but at least we could see the streetlights below. I don't know if that was worth $3.50 apiece, however. We passed up several offers for horse-drawn carriage rides, which, I guess, is a Magnificent Mile staple now and started hunting for a place to eat.

The older members of the offspring had touted us on several of the purported neat spots. Hardrock Cafe didn't look that inviting and there were lines for a pizza emporium, the name of which I can't remember, Ditka's and Ed Dabevik's ("Dad, you'll like Ed's. It's authentic 1950's.") I chose Carson's, more because of some empty parking space rather than its reputation as a mainstay in the new restaurant section along Ontario St. Mom and Bob were pretty hungry by then so there wasn't any argument. Carson's lived up to its ribs reputation, as far as Bob and I can vouch. The meal was made more enjoyable for me because of the knowledge there wouldn't be a hassle—and an arm to pay—to get the car.

Bob is a first-rate chauffeur and he didn't fail. After 40 winks in the back seat it seemed like we were turning into the driveway within minutes. Mission accomplished. An experience relived, new memories and perhaps a tradition passed on to a young man. All three of us felt good about closing the book on the holidays.

THANKS, MIKE—There's not going to be any Super Bowl hoopla around this year so let's think of the Chicago Bears in terms of 1986—a world championship and a flock of victories.

Thanks, Coach Ditka, for a wonderful, whacky 12 months. It's great to have you as a neighbor and to have so many of your coaches and players as part of our community. You're still all heroes even though the quest for a second consecutive Super Bowl crown came to a crashing halt, a sad halt more than a disappointing halt. Maybe that's why you didn't get more worked up on the sidelines than usual. The '86 Bears certainly suffered more adversities than are due world champs—departure of a key coach, injuries, loss of the No. 1 quarterback, no little dissension, and the distracting avalanche of fan adulation that came from a title-starved following. Wait'll next year? What's the fuss? It's already 1987, isn't it?

Local Pool Leagues Are Not For Hustlers Only

by CHARLES JOHNSTON

Everybody knows that when winter comes, many people in the Lakeland area get out their bowling balls and join one of many local leagues. What most do not know is that many, rather than getting out the bowling ball, are picking up a pool cue and heading down to the local watering hole to play league pool.

Jan Baczek, owner of A and J's Honky Tonk Tavern in Round Lake, is one of many local tavern owners who sponsor pool leagues. He has also been a player for 30 years, playing league pool for 16.

"It is very popular in this area," he said, "and has grown steadily for the last 20 years."

Traditionally an excuse for the "boys" to get together for an evening, Baczek says that pool has become more acceptable in recent years. "We have ladies that come in, go into the back and just shoot pool for a few hours." It has gotten so acceptable that about 25 percent of league players in Lake County are women.

"We have it set up for men's leagues, women's leagues and mixed leagues," Baczek says. "Women can play on men's teams, but men can not play on women's teams. The leagues play on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays."

For those unaccustomed to league play, the scoring is different from the standard pick-up game. Though 8-ball is the game, the scoring is based on points rather than wins and losses. Players get two points for sinking the 8-ball and one point for each of their opponents balls that remain on the table. Teams can have as many as 10 players each, but only five can play in a match. Matches go three rounds with each player playing the same opponent three times, for a total of 15 games.

Leagues run all year, but they generally run 14 weeks at a time before a new series starts. Baczek says that winter is the biggest time of the year. Summer leagues are popular, but there is about a 70 percent dropoff from the number of people who participate in winter leagues.

Locally, there are teams from McHenry through Libertyville, and all stops in between. Tavern owners like to support pool leagues because they are steady and don't take the room that darts or horseshoes do.

Pool players come in all ages. Baczek says he has seen league players from the ages of 21 up to 75. "Obviously, there aren't that many really old guys, but you see a few spread out on different teams," he said. "Most teams are fairly even on age - young players tend to play together and middle aged players have usually played together for years. There is a lot of variance in ages between teams, though."

The movie, "The Color of Money," angered a lot of serious pool players, according to Baczek. Though about pool, he says it gave a totally wrong impression and, in fact, created some problems. "There is a scene where one of the guys twirls his cue-stick around like some sort of Japanese ninja," he said. "Now you see young players doing that and it's dangerous. You could kill someone with a pool cue. That movie didn't do a thing as far as sparking the pool industry."

The classic movie, "The Hustler," is spoken of in reverent terms. "That movie was what pool is all about," Baczek said, "and it did spark the pool industry. Every serious pool player has seen The Hustler."

Baczek thinks that pool has not gotten the attention it deserves because it has not gotten the media coverage that, say, bowling has. Still, he sees new players coming in every year.

In his 16 years of league play, Baczek has won more trophies than he can count. He should: his average is 3.9. Most players average between 1.7 and 2.6 points per game.

He says the most exciting way to win a match is to go down to the last round and win on an 8-ball break. "That is an automatic nine points," he said. "You get two for the 8-ball and one each for the other seven balls left on the table. Only one in every 35 breaks is an 8-ball break and there is some danger involved in trying for one.

Eyeing Up The Shot

"You line up to hit the second ball rather than the front. It is easy to scratch or send the cue ball off the table. Even if neither happens, you still end up with a worse lay than you would usually have with a normal break."

Baczek plays for the sheer enjoyment of the game. He says that many players play for the thrill of winning. One thing that is certain, though, is that pool players are serious about their game.

"Some guys would rather play pool than have sex," Baczek says. "For others, though, it is a nice time out with the boys and for women it is a nice evening out of the house."

This year, for the first time, the league has set up a handicap system so players of varying ability can be more evenly matched.

Baczek thinks that will add even more popularity to the game.

What was once a game for toughs in a dank poolroom has become the game of choice for men and women of all ages in the Lakeland area.

To get more information on how to join a league, stop by the local tavern some evening and see the bartender, or call the National Pocket Billiard Assn. in Milwaukee, Wis. at (414) 672-3935.

It Is Square One For Math Students

Square One TV, a lively magazine-format educational television series created by the Children's Television Workshop (CTW), is aimed at the nation's 14 million eight to 12-year-olds. A Lake County man, Dr. Zalman Usiskin, of Glenview, is a member of the show's national board of advisors. Usiskin is a professor of education at the University of Chicago.

One of the program's major goals is to promote a greater interest in and enthusiasm for mathematics among third to sixth graders. It will introduce important mathematical topics and teach children to use problem-solving strategies in their everyday lives.

"We live in a society where the need to understand and use mathematics is growing every day," said Joan Cooney, president of CTW. "A technology-based economy offers rewards and opportunity to those who are able to master its complexities - and sharply limited opportunity to those who do not."

Popular guest celebrities, such as Sugar Ray Leonard and Shari Belafonte-Harper, will introduce important concepts in skits. The show will close each episode with "Mathnet," a continuing detective drama where the characters use mathematics to solve mysteries.

Sesame Street and The Electric Company were also created by CTW. Square One TV will debut on Monday, Jan. 26, on the nearly 300 public television stations across America. In the Lakeland area, the show can be seen on channel 11.

Will Questions Lead To Answers? Read On

This is a new column, so we'll be immediately upfront. Its title means thoughtful consideration. Its subject matter will be medical care and where your dollar goes. It is fair to say that the public is confused. Very few people understand our medical problems. Very few explanations appear other than in hospital trade publications and medical journals. I don't think you read these. One column, ably written, appeared in the financial columns of a great newspaper—but you don't look there for medical ex-need sustained questioning and information. The column, coming to you every other week, will try to help you pick your way through mine fields on your way to adequate medical care.

In these columns, we shall consider Medicare, HMOs, their advantages or disadvantages, and what you should ask before signing on. Insurance companies, lawyers, hospitals, and doctors will be considered. An informed public is the only thing to be counted on because it can influence events when aroused. I'm going to make a pitch here for you to save this column because it is hard to tell the players without a program.

Medicare should be enlightening because it has put out guidelines. I started to wander through the maze of government bodies monitoring this venerable body. (If you're under 65, don't give up reading further, because your dollars contribute to it, and it influences how your insurance company behaves.) I found there are about 10 federal, local and subsidiary contracting groups that are part of control. I say about 10 because some are chiefs, some are Indians. When contacted, all were pleasant and helpful but admitted that it was difficult to explain because one or two have input under special circumstances. Almost all cheerfully recommended other offices for my inquiries. Have you ever asked a government agency a question?

DRGs, or "Diagnosis Related Groups," are the cornerstone of control. If I plotted a table with arrows showing how the 10 administered DRGs, it would boggle the mind. Professionals looked at it, ordinary people also, and the general opinion was it would make you gag if included in this column. It would be great motivation to quit reading right there and hurry on to the after-Christmas ads. Suffice it to say, DRGs put pressure on the hospitals to "shape up" and cut down on costs. This we'd commend, but how it does this is another matter. Simply put, payment for Medicare is usually made only for the principal illness or for what the patient was admitted. It ignores how long he/she had to stay or if there are other illnesses that need treatment or studies, even if life-threatening. Burdened by this constraint and suffering from unpaid extra costs, the hospital shares its burden by asking doctors to accept limits on admission and treatment. The ramifications of all this merits a separate column on DRGs.

If you've been patient, we're ready for some questions.

Musings: If we constrain treatment under too-rigid guidelines, will the patient have less than adequate care?

Musings: If cost containment becomes the overriding concern, will care of the sick become less?

Musings: If we build government bureaucracy layer upon layer, won't that add to the cost of medical care? Are we spending dollars for the bureaucracy instead of for the patient?

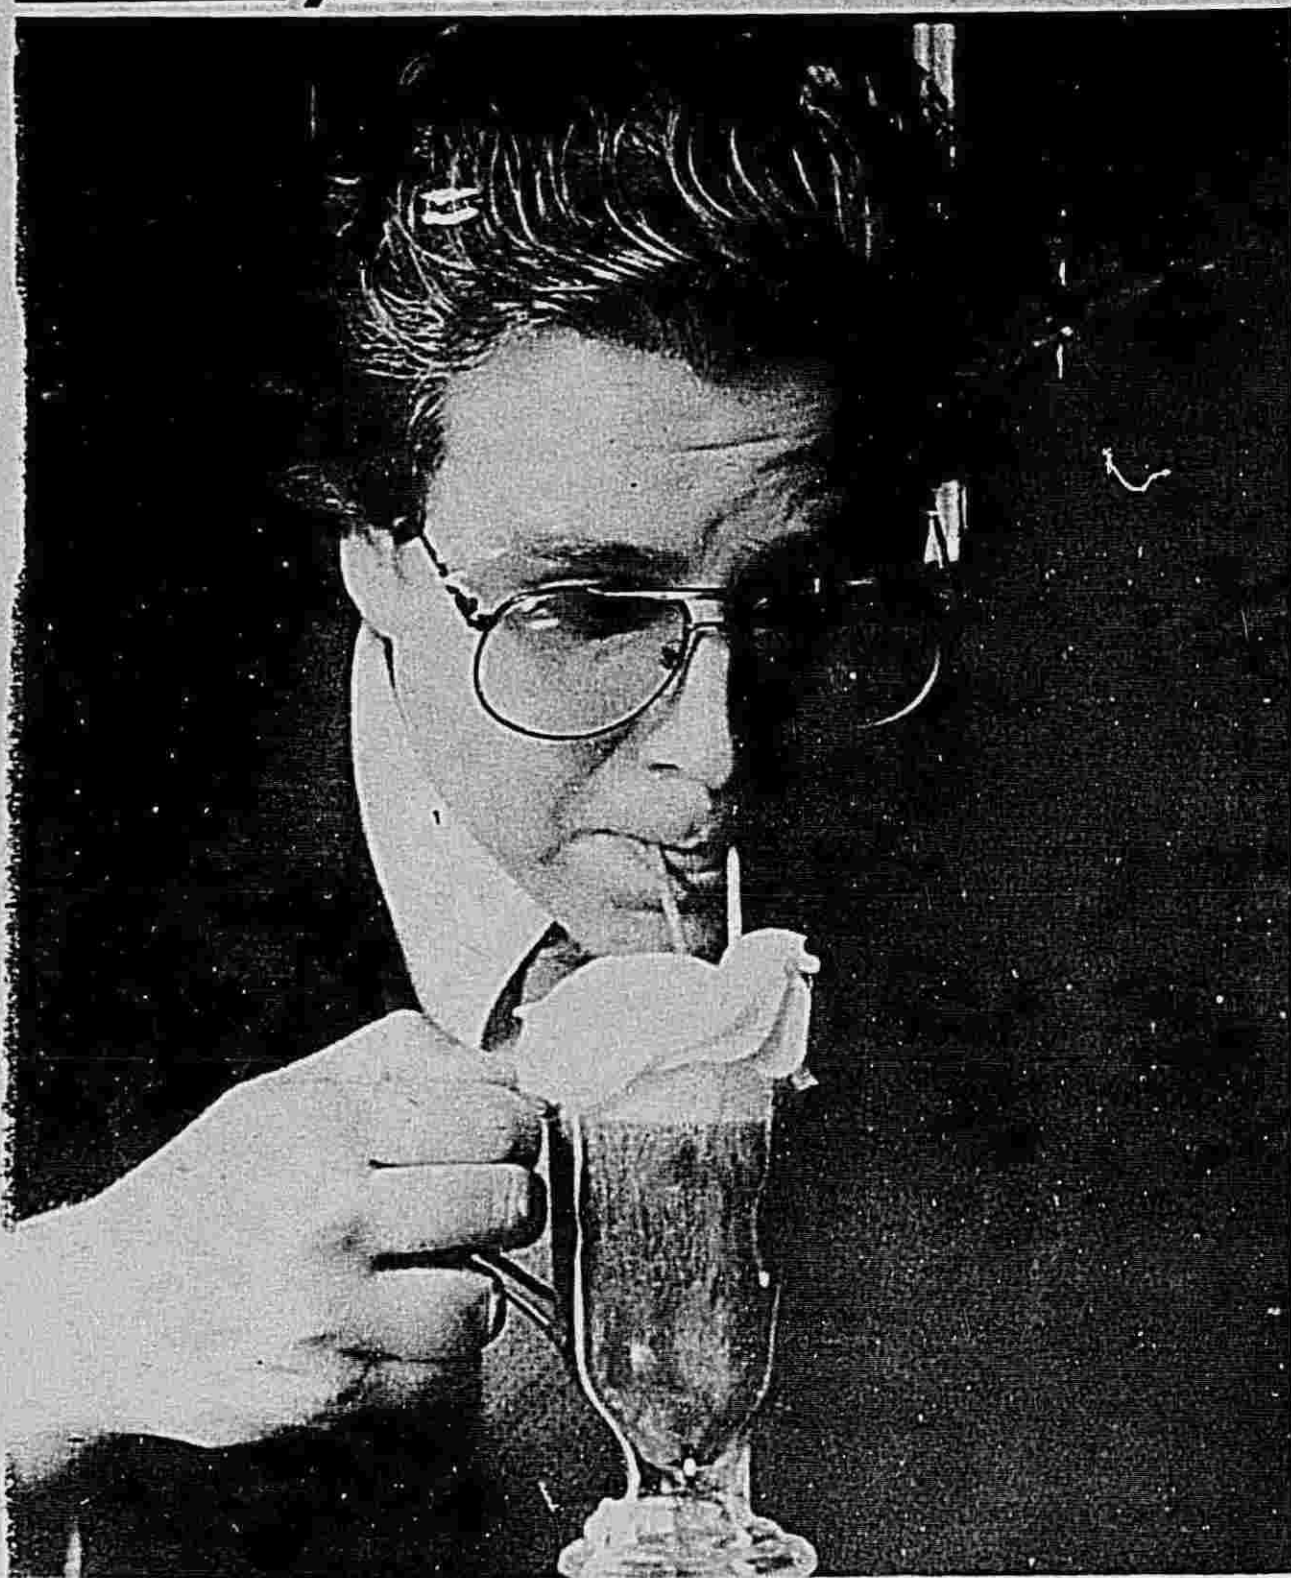

Musings: If we become too preoccupied with many regulations and dollar constraints, will care be less? Will doctors respond with delayed admissions, more bureaucracy, loss of initiative and morale as well as frustration at the gradual interference in patients' care?

Hot Drinks Take The Chill Out Of Winter

by MARK BENNO

Even though winter winds are famous for chilling both skin and bone, there is a way to fight this frigid phenomenon: hot, steaming drinks.

This editor took it upon himself to find the four best hot drinks in the Lakeland area, and the results feature favorites from the past plus a tasty newcomer.

The Irish Mill, located on Rte. 60 in Diamond Lake has, according to bartender Gerry Hamm, "the best Irish Coffee in the state." Hamm said it is a popular drink at this time of year, adding that, "we get a lot of calls for these."

The recipe for the Irish Coffee, which Hamm personally recommends, is listed with the other recipes.

The Milwaukee Roadhouse, located on Rte. 21 in Libertyville, features hot drinks for those in a hurry.

Dave Steckel, a bartender at the Milwaukee Roadhouse, recommends a Bailey's and coffee for people who want a hot drink without the wait. Steckel said the drink is quite popular during the winter months.

For Steckel's recipe, see the recipe section.

Unfortunately, this editor found that many of the pubs and taverns which cater to the younger crowds lack the facilities to properly prepare a traditional hot drink.

I remained undaunted, however, and set about preparing, through trial and error, two of the best hot drinks in western Lake County. The editor's choice for two more fantastic winter drinks, a Hot Buttered Rum and a Scottish Sling, are listed in the recipe section.

Hot winter drinks are an ideal way to fight the cold from the inside out. While bars and taverns are one way to get hot drinks, nothing can beat the care and attention that goes into a homemade drink. Experiment yourself, since hot water, butter, sugar, and coffee are the mainstays of most winter drinks.

Focus On Food

IRISH COFFEE

Jameson Irish Whiskey, one shot
Sugar, two teaspoons
Coffee
Whipped Cream

Mix together coffee and whiskey. Stir in sugar and add a heaping amount of whipped cream on top of coffee.

BAILEY'S AND COFFEE

Bailey's Irish Cream, one to two shots
Coffee

Simply mix together coffee and Bailey's Irish Cream. This recipe is an example of coffee's versatility, and how easily it mixes with a variety of beverages to form excellent hot drinks.

HOT BUTTERED RUM

Sugar Cube, one
Pinches clove, allspice
Rum, two ounces
Boiling Water
Pat of Butter, one

Place the sugar, spices, and rum together in a large mug. Slowly stir in the boiling water. Once it is mixed, add pat of butter to top and serve.

SCOTTISH SLING

Scotch Whiskey, two ounces
Sugar, one cube
Twist of Lemon Peel
Boiling Water
Nutmeg

For this new favorite, just add boiling water to scotch. Stir in sugar with lemon twist, and add nutmeg for both garnish and flavor.

Travel Show Fun Time Comes To Chicagoland

It's travel show and fun time in Chicagoland, as the Chicago Boat and Sports Show draws record crowds at McCormick Place. Featured are boats and RVs, along with outdoor equipment for anglers. The travel section has blossomed this year to include a surge of Canadian displays. This five-day show ends Sunday, Jan. 11. Admissions are $5 for adults and $1 for six- to 12-year-olds.

Purists who prefer Canada may attend a newly-located show at Pheasant Run's MegaCenter. Here over 100 Canadian displays offer hospitality and entertainment during vicarious visits conceived in conversation, photos and films of selected areas. The four-day All Canada Fishing, Hunting and Vacation Show opens Thursday, Jan. 8, and will run through Sunday. Tickets are $5; seniors and children 12 and under are $3. Located at Hwy. 59 and North Ave. (Rte. 64), attendees may register for daily and grand prizes.

It may be a little confusing for 1987 travelers who drive in either direction over the contiguous Wisconsin/Illinois state line. We have long been familiar with Illinois' Gov. James Thompson during his many terms. What may be a surprise is Wisconsin has also elected a Gov. Thompson, named Tommy. So, this year travelers will be greeted by welcome signs from both directions by the Governors, Thompson.

Woodfield's Wonderful Winterland Carnival begins Feb. 1, according to Tom Rivera, spokesman for the Visitor's Bureau. Ice carving championships, snowmobiling, skiing and a "Snow Ball" are among the many activities. "It's time," said Rivera, "to extend summer fun into our winter season." Thirteen assisting park districts will sponsor outdoor and indoor displays and competitions. For details, call the Greater Woodfield Visitors Bureau at (312) 882-0880.

Beginning Friday, Jan. 30, the Chicagoland Sport Fishing, Travel and Outdoor Show will open at O'Hare Expo Center for a 10-day stay. This is the biggest travel show in our area. Now in its eighth year, more than 700 exhibits will occupy the interest of attendees. . . it just can't all be done in one day.

For travel information, 385 resorts, lodges and recreational areas may be queried, 50 more than last year. For anglers, some 240 manufacturers will have equipment on display at various booths throughout the floor. Casting ponds for practice and trout ponds for catching are included, along with 31 free fishing seminars and a new fishing simulator. It's a 50-foot, 5000 gallon fish tank where fish and lures can be observed in action. Admission is $5.50 for adults, $2 for children ages six to 12, and free for those younger. For an advance newsletter or floor plan, call (312) 299-3131.

Promises, promises, but skiing is a habit in the minds of many travelers, despite our lack of snow. Many prefer the western mountains and their super oriented programs. Travelers with children can often locate special discounts, such as children under 12 ski free. Others offer free airfare for children. Shopping for specials can be done quickly by contacting established travel agencies.

Adding New Cat Need Not Traumatize The Old

by CHARLENE WHITNEY

If you are thinking about bringing another cat into the home for companionship or into a multi-cat household, there are things to look into.

First, decide if there is enough space, and only adopt as many pets as there is room for. Don't overcrowd them. Cats need their own territory.

Be sure each cat has his own food and water dish, his own bed, and his own spot for peace. Make sure you respect your pet's right to have his claim.

aluminum foil in the soiled spot. Clean the spot with vinegar and water (don't use ammonia).

If the problem is spraying for his territory, often castration will stop it.

If the cat is doing destructive scratching, set up one or two scratching posts near the item being destroyed. Rub catnip on the posts for extra attention. Move the used scratching post an inch a day, and it will end up being used at the right place.

Fighting usually breaks up

With all these things in mind, and by thinking it all through, you should be able to bring all your cats together in peace. It should be a happy-ever-after for all of you.

Goddess Milk

Early Greeks believed the band of light we know as the Milky Way was formed from goddess' milk.

What's Happening ...

Pet-Wise

Some cats become close companions and best of buddies that sleep together, play together, and even groom each other. Others will never be close.

In any case, it's important to try and pick a pet that will fit in with the other cat or cats.

Cats are loners by nature. So, when forced to live together, they sometimes develop bad habits.

A cat may brand his area with his scent of urine and scratch the furniture to mark his territory. Cat fights may break out as he defends his territory.

To correct the litter box problem, put food, toys or quickly. You can stop fights by squirting the cats with water. Dry them off and keep them in separate rooms until they cool off.

Neurotic behavior is caused by stress of change. A cat might over- or under-eat, do less or more grooming, act listless or display aggression.

The cat may show signs of distress such as vomiting, diarrhea, constipation, or his fur may always be on end. These problems need attention from your veterinarian.

Many behavior problems can be avoided if you introduce the new cat properly.

Arrange, if possible, to have a friend bring in the new pet. The cat or cats you have won't feel so jealous.

Put the new pet in his own room with food, water, litter box, and a bed. For about a week, visit the pet often. The cats will get used to each others' scents and sounds. By the end of that week, open the door and let the cats find each other.

Be sure and leave the door open for the new pet. He may want to return to his own room or territory.

Allow the cats to establish a relationship at their own pace. It may take them up to a few months.

The free class is designed for new parents and will provide a basic refresher course in infant care as well as an overview of current parenting. Registration is required and may be obtained by calling (312) 360-4246.

Business

Gurnee Firm Merges With Chemical Group

Mazer Chemicals, Inc., a Gurnee-based specialty chemicals maker and marketer, has been acquired by Pittsburgh-based PPG Industries, the company announced.

PPG acquired 100 percent of the company's outstanding stocks, according to Robert D. Duncan, PPG's group vice president-chemicals. Mazer had 1985 sales of some $50 million. Mazer will operate from Gurnee with its current management team as a wholly-owned PPG subsidiary. The company's 200-plus employees worldwide, including 170 in the Gurnee area, join PPG's Chemicals Group.

Mazer specializes in chemicals called surfactants—surface-active substances that benefit numerous personal care, pharmaceutical, food and cleaning products. For example, surfactants cause stable, foamy lather in shaving creams, make water a more effective cleaner by lowering its surface tension, and they make it possible to deliver moisturizing agents to skin in shampoos and cosmetics without causing irritation.

The company's Gurnee headquarters include offices, warehouses, production and R&D facilities. In addition, the company has offices in Manchester, England; Mexico City, Mexico; and Mississauga, Ontario. Mazer has grown some 30-fold in terms of employees and sales since it located at Gurnee in 1970.

Mazer president and company founder Robert R. Mazer, who continues as president of the PPG subsidiary, said that "the merger of our company into PPG will significantly and positively add to Mazer Chemicals' overall corporate resources and contribute to our long-term growth as a major factor in the growing chemical specialties marketplace."

"As a key element of the PPG Chemical Group's new surfactant chemicals operation, we expect that Mazer Chemicals will be the catalyst for greater penetration in both existing and new markets," Mazer added.

Duncan said that based on Mazer's position among leading surfactants producers, the acquisition greatly broadens PPG's surfactants product line and strengthens the company's presence and identity in key U.S. and international surfactants markets. It also meshes with PPG's long-range strategy of building on existing technological strengths toward achieving growth in higher-value-added chemicals, he added.

The Mazer acquisition represents PPG's second in the surfactants industry. In January, 1986, PPG acquired the Jordan Chemical Co., Folcroft, Pa., which supplies surfactants for the cosmetic, toiletry, textile and household and industrial cleaner industries. PPG entered the specialty surfactant business last year by introducing a proprietary family of surfactants—Avanel S sulfonates—for use in personal care products and household industrial cleaners.

PPG is a worldwide producer of glass, fiberglass, coatings and resins, as well as specialty and industrial chemicals. Sales in 1986 approximated $4.6 billion. Chemicals accounted for about 20 percent of that total. Recently, the company acquired assets that also make it an international participant in the medical electronics field.

The Mortgage Report

The national average on 30-year fixed-rate mortgages declined to 9.44 percent from last week's 9.48 percent. Adjustable mortgages rose slightly to 7.83 percent from last week's 7.82 percent.

In Chicago, 30-year fixed-rate mortgages rose to 9.35 percent from last week's 9.34 percent. Adjustable mortgages rose slightly to 7.65 percent from last week's 7.64 percent.

Do your children tell you everything? If they have taken a spill, fallen off a bike, or injured themselves playing football, you may be the last to know. That's why it's important to give your children a Chiropractic Checkup regularly. Many times, untreated childhood accidents turn into spinal distortions that may not show up for months or years. Parents never really know how many little bumps, knocks, and falls their children have had. Why take a chance? Bring your children in for a Chiropractic Checkup. CALL TODAY!

ARIES

(March 21-April 20)

Pursue academic desires and don't let others dissuade you from your chosen path. Once you have made up your mind, stick with it!

TAURUS

(April 21-May 20)

A wonderful friend will assist you with a difficult problem. Be grateful for small miracles. A new friendship is about to spring up in your life.

GEMINI

(May 21-June 20)

Much is to be gained from one who possesses much wisdom. Be on the alert for travel possibilities that could be work-connected.

CANCER

(June 21-July 22)

Make up with an estranged mate who could hold you to a promise made long ago. Young people could interfere with your way of doing things.

LEO

(July 23-Aug. 22)

A residential move will have its ups and downs. Don't be ready to sign on the dotted line until you're sure of everything that has been promised to you from others.

VIRGO

(Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

You will want to contact a former friend who can make the difference between success and failure. Count your money where large sums are concerned.

LIBRA

(Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

Your friendly attitude will help you up the ladder of success. A friend's sudden illness will give you something to think about.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 23-Nov. 22)

If you have been under the weather recently, remember that you have much to be thankful for. You can recuperate from anything once you have put your mind to it.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23-Dec. 21)

Your travel plans to distant places could keep you busy during the week. Don't forget to pack those important items.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

Persons of your age group will look to you for guidance. Finances are on your side.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

Your lucky streak will not wane if you don't go haywire at the present time. People at a distance are hoping to hear from you.

PISCES

(Feb. 19-March 20)

Marvelous results should be anticipated from a recent test, so don't think the worse. Problems at home will clear up.

After Slow Beginning, '87 Economy Will Grow

Look for the U.S. economy to grow moderately in 1987, while interest rates and inflation remain at low levels. Texas and other oil-patch areas will begin a long-awaited recovery. But despite these encouraging signs, the slow rate of growth during the first quarter may bring out some doubting Thomases.

Look for renewed efforts in Washington to enact trade restrictions on imports. Let's hope that these efforts are not successful; they could hurt the U.S. economy—and our forecasts.

Here are the Meyers Report's other predictions for the year to come:

—Inflation. The Consumer Price Index should increase no more than a modest 1.85 percent. Raw materials and other commodity prices should remain stable, and may even decline.

—Personal income. Pay increases will be about the smallest in modern U.S. history. Executives should expect raises of five percent, the working person three percent.

—Gross national product. First quarter GNP growth should be at 0.8 percent, then gain speed, hitting a rate of three and a half percent in the fourth quarter.

—Oil. Crude oil will reach $15 to $17 a barrel. While $18 per barrel is possible, don't bet the ranch on it.

Government and business interest. More declines are coming between now and March. Then, look for stability and slight increases. By Jan. 31, the Federal Reserve should lower the discount rate to five percent. Look for the prime rate to fall to seven and a quarter percent by March 31.

By June 30, yields on 90-day and six-month Treasury bills and 30-year T-bonds should be back to 5.10 percent, 5.40 percent and 6.95 percent, respectively.

—Mortgages. Fixed-rate, 30-year loans will fall to 8.88 percent in January, setting off another national refinancing craze. This will bury mortgage lenders and drive rates back up to present levels by mid-March or April.

—Savings interest rates. Interest paid on passbook savings accounts will quietly be cut to less than five percent.

—Investments. Stocks will do well. Bonds will not. Precious metals will remain volatile and could go lower.

—In the stock market, we like energy, banking and high-tech companies. The Dow Jones industrial average should hit 2000 by March and go as high as 2200 by September.

—Corporate bonds could be a big disappointment in 1987. The generally stable interest environment means that bonds won't yield much. If and when interest rates rise, bonds will bomb.

Gold, which is difficult to forecast, could fall to $350 per troy ounce or lower, if inflation stays low and the economy gains.

—Home buying or selling. A hot housing market is coming because of lower interest rates and the new tax law, which leaves a home as the best remaining tax shelter for the middle class.

Housing starts for 1987 should total 1.87 million, with monthly variations between 1.55 million and 1.95 million, annualized.

—Unemployment. The first-quarter civilian unemployment rate should be 6.9 percent. Beyond that, look for monthly fluctuations between 6.6 percent and 7.1 percent. There will be no big drops in the unemployment rate, as American corporations are expected to increase automation and pare down middle management.

The week in review: The Index of Leading Indicators in November rose a whopping 1.2 percent, the highest gain since April 1986.

—Sales of existing homes in November rose 13.4 percent from November 1985. New home sales fell 1.5 percent. However, November sales traditionally represent only a small portion of the year's activity, so these percentage changes must be considered minor.

—The November trade deficit hit $19.22 billion, the largest in U.S. history.

—Sharp increases in government and corporate interest rates during the last week of the year represent seasonal and technical shifts, and also should be considered minor.

—Mortgage rates were down this week, with 30-year fixed-rate loans averaging 9.44 percent, of the institutions in the weekly survey, 24 percent lowered mortgage rates, while no institutions raised their rates. Fifteen-year, fixed-rate mortgages, are at 9.14 percent.

How Yuppies Can Avoid Living On Financial Edge

by GARY S. MEYERS

If you are a yuppie—a young, urban professional—you belong to the best-educated, most free-spending generation in American history.

You may well drive a BMW, wear monogrammed shirts and pinstriped suits, carry a kid leather briefcase, dine in expensive restaurants and take ski vacations.

And, because your bank account is usually virtually empty, you pay for all of the above with plastic credit.

Personal finance planners say that all too often young, fast-track professionals are poor money managers. Many yuppies spend lavishly and constantly, finding themselves cash-short at the end of the month.

Why do many yuppies avoid financial planning and live on the edge?

Experts told the Meyers Report that as baby boomers, yuppies grew up in the plentiful 1960s—the era of the Great Society. Their aspirations were formed by the prosperity of their parents at a time when optimism about the economy was at its peak.

A recent American Assn. of Retired Persons study found that more than half of today's yuppies would rather spend today than save for retirement. Yet, more than 60 percent worry they won't have enough money to retire comfortably.

According to the study, yuppies typically spend more than six percent of their gross annual salary on vacations, and 15 percent of their gross income goes to pay debts other than mortgage payments.

If laid off tomorrow, most yuppies couldn't live on their savings for the next three months. Generally, they do not have a monthly savings plan, either through automatic payroll deductions or their own disciplined efforts. And, most do not contribute to an individual Retirement Account.

"Money does more for us than buy the goods and services we need and want," said D.C. Clark, chairman of Household International, a national financial services company based in Prospect Heights.

"It influences how we feel about ourselves and has a great deal to do with our ambitions for the future. Money management abilities, therefore, have a great bearing on the degree of satisfaction we gain from life," Clark said.

Before young professionals seriously consider any investments, "they must first establish their basic needs—home necessities, cash reserves and insurance protection," said financial planner Joseph Ballarino, president of Financial Strategies Group, Ltd. of Homewood.

"Once a solid foundation is established, you'll have something to fall back on. Then, you can gradually build an investment pyramid," Ballarino said.

Personal finance experts say a young professional's basic financial plan should provide for the following expenses:

Fixed expenses. Rent, mortgage payments, taxes, utility bills and installment debts are major fixed expenses. Others include food, auto parking, gasoline and commuter fares.

An emergency savings fund—at least three to six months of gross salary—should also be set aside as a fixed expense.

Financial planners say this fund should be established in an easy-to-reach account—passbook savings, Super NOW account or money market fund. It is designed to be used for unexpected expenses, such as emergency car repairs, illness or a job layoff and therefore should be liquid.

Flexible expenses. These are occasional expenses that vary greatly in amount, such as clothing costs, vacations, recreation and entertainment, health care, furniture and appliance purchases, household help and perhaps birthday gifts.

Don't forget that it is easy to spend as much as $25 to $50 a week on small things—newspapers, soft drinks and junk food, magazines, cigarettes.

Other flexible expenses include food you buy on impulse at the supermarket and gadgets for the house or apartment. Plan for these incidentals and then carefully shop for them.

It is also a good idea to set up a category in your budget to cover these flexible expenses.

Periodic expenses. Auto, life and health insurance premiums are hefty periodic expenses that should be planned for in advance. Frequently, periodic expenses are so large that payments cannot be made from a single paycheck. The secret to having sufficient money to meet these expenses, when due, is to save a certain amount each month or every other month in your savings account.

Next week: How financial planning can help retirees find a comfortable future.

Retired Teachers To Meet

Retired teachers in Lake County are invited to a luncheon Jan. 13.

The Lake County Retired Teachers Assn. will meet at the Northern Chalet in Libertyville. The luncheon will start at noon.

Gayle Magoon of Vernon Hills will present a slide show on a new retirement community, Hawthorne Lakes. The development is soon to be opened to the public.

The luncheon is free and no reservations are needed.

Antioch, is averaging 17.8 points a game. Richford, who missed most of one game because of an injury, is at 15.6.

The Grant guards have been doing their job in getting the ball inside. Mike Kazlauskis has 87 assists, Marc Borton 43 and Mike MacDonald 42 in 12 games.

"We'll hopefully be able to control the tempo and keep the scoring low," Groth said.

The Bulldogs will have to guard against looking past the Rams. They face Crystal Lake Central in a non-conference game Jan. 10 in Crystal Lake. Central, which won the Northern Illinois Classic in Hampshire, features center Bill Heppner, who is headed for DePaul next year. The Bulldogs then square off with Lake Zurich Jan. 16.

Maple said maintaining what the team already has accomplished is the key to the second half of the season.

"It will all depend on one thing: if we are able to maintain the serious approach to each practice and each game," Maple said.

League play resumes in full force Jan. 9. Johnsbury is at Marengo, Round Lake at Wauconda, and Lake Zurich at Marian Central.

Game Of The Week

When Grant travels to Grayslake for a Northwest Suburban Conference battle, the Bulldogs will have first place on the line. Grayslake, meanwhile, will be seeking to end a five-game losing streak.

The game is Lakeland Newspapers' Game of the Week.

"We have nothing to lose and everything to gain," Grayslake coach Greg Groth said.

Grant comes into the contest with a 10-2 overall record, tied for first in the NWSC at 3-0. Grayslake, meanwhile, has slipped to 4-6 and 2-2 in league play.

Despite the disparity in records, Grant coach Tom Maple respects Grayslake.

"Grayslake started out well and has the potential to be dangerous, especially at steady ballplayers," Maple said.

The Rams will be up against a team which is holding its opponents to 51.5 points a game. At the DeKalb Holiday Tournament, the Bulldogs held the opposition to just 48 points a game.

Maple points to defense as the main reason why his squad is one of the top bannanas, along with Lake Zurich, in the NWSC.

"Absolutely, it's defense. A lot of these kids have been playing this defense for two years and their technique is good," the coach said.

On the other side of the court, the Rams will have to find a way to stop Grant's two big men inside - 6' 6" center Don Kiesgan and 6' 1" forward Ron Richford. Kiesgan, a transfer from

Mid-Season Perfect Time For Teams' Assessment

Well, it's mid-season for area high school basketball teams. A time to look back at what has been accomplished and prospects for the 1987 portion of the schedule.

Here's a thumbnail sketch of each of the Lakeland area teams:

Grant: Coach Tom Maple's club is clearly the class of the area with a 10-2 overall record.

The winning ways started during the football campaign last fall have carried over to the hoops season. Don Kiesgan, a transfer from Antioch, and Ron Richford, give the Bulldogs a one-two punch that's hard to beat inside. Grant faces a major non-conference test Jan. 10 at Crystal Lake Central and that's followed by a battle with fellow first-place holder Lake Zurich Jan. 16. Those two games should tell much about Grant's prospects down the stretch.

Warren: The Blue Devils are off to a strong 8-4 start, but questions remain.

For example, the team has Brian Jarrell as its main offensive thrust and Derek Shelton is experienced at guard, but the other three positions are iffy. If someone like Matt Lingenfelter or Brian Sears steps forward during the final eight weeks, then Warren can say it has something besides good defense and Jarrell.

North Chicago: The Warhawks are also 8-4, a surprise team at that.

Coach Lester Long has combined height with fast-break quickness and that always adds up to victories. Still, it's tough to assess this team because a schedule mix-up caused a forfeit at the Wheeling Tournament. Experience against Chicago teams should help the Warhawks in the post-season.

Round Lake: Coach Bob Ward can be thankful of one thing.

The toughest part of the schedule is behind his young team. The Panthers (7-5) played Lake Zurich, Marengo and Grant to open the Northwest Suburban Conference season and lost all three. But beginning Jan. 9 at Wauconda, the Panthers seem to have an easier time of it. After Wauconda, Round Lake plays Johnsbury, Marian Central and Grayslake to close out January.

Carmel: The Corsairs are off to a better start at 7-4 than their Sweet Sixteen team of a year ago, and coach Frank Belmont's team appears to be jelling.

Carmel features a balanced attack, led by Rob Graham, Scott Stahoviak and John Wellington.

The key for Carmel will be if the Corsairs can cut down on turnovers.

Carmel, like Round Lake, has had a difficult schedule, as the Corsairs had just days rest (while other teams had 10 or more).

OVERTIME

By Steve Peters

between the Kankakee Tournament and battle with league contender St. Joseph.

Johnsbury: The Skyhawks spent much of the early half of the 1986-87 season getting to know coach Jeff Lewiston's system and showed. But the 'Hawks, 5-5 after the Hampshire tourney, showed some life there could give NWSC teams a run for money.

Grayslake: The Rams started off season by winning the Johnsbury Thanksgiving tourney that may have more to do with weak opponents than a Rams.

Grayslake (4-6) has since lost going losing five straight. Butch Lanoir and Timm West have been providing much of the offense, which needs consistency.

Mundelein: Mundelein coach Don Kessel is the first to say his team needs off to a good start to have a chance.

So far this year, with the exception of upset win over Geneva at Hampshire Mustangs' season has been a downer. Wiener is a force inside, but he can only reach 500 playing in the rugged Suburban Conference, it would be a accomplishment worth writing home about Antioch: Coach Don Zeman's squad is big game right off the bat after the two layoff.

The Sequoits battle Fenton in an contest. The game is important to Fenton and Antioch (2-10) match up evenly in height, something the Sequoits not receive for Christmas.

Wauconda: The good news for coach Neary's team is it gets to play Cary again.

The Bulldogs upset the Trojans Round Lake tournament and have now back to the winners circle since.

However, the Bulldogs (1-8) have that a team looking to its next contest get a lecture on mental preparedness coach. In other words, don't count Bulldogs out.

Plan Two Sports Clinics

Two high school level sports clinics—one for football, the other for soccer—will be held Jan. 16 through 18 at the Best Western Des Plaines O'Hare Inn, 1750 Elmhurst Rd. Programs are scheduled to start at 5:30 p.m. on Friday.

Guest speaker at the Best of High School Football Clinic will be John Pont, former Northwestern coach from Hamilton (Ohio) High School. Also featured will be Bob Berezowitz, University of Wisconsin-Whitewater coach; Mick Ewing, University of Chicago Barz, Illinois Benedictine College; and Dick Hamline University.

Lancers Split Contests, Skyway Loop Season Starts

STEVE PETERSON
Sports Editor

For one weekend, the college of Lake County was the place to be for the basketball fan.

With the high schools still in Christmas break, the Lancer hoops action was the only game in town. And more importantly, both the CLC mens and womens teams were hoping for momentum going into their respective Skyway Conference campaigns.

Both teams earned a split against Harper and the college of DuPage. CLC's men clubbed Harper 74-50 and then lost a tight battle to DuPage 61-57. The women bounced back from a loss to Harper and beat DuPage 63-57.

The Lancers' Skyway Conference home opener is Jan. 8 when they host Waubensee. The women's game starts at 7 p.m. and the mens game at 8 p.m.

"Wright will be the team to beat and the rest of us will be darkhorses," Smith said.

But don't count CLC out - the Lancers are the defending league champions.

For coach Bruce Smith's team, 8-6 before league play, the opening game against Harper proved to be one in which the hosts took control from the start.

"We played a team which had a very, very bad first half," Smith said of the Hawks.

Harper could make only five baskets the entire first half as CLC zoomed to a 33-14 lead. Harper took nearly six minutes to score its first point.

In the second 20 minutes, Harper played even early, trimming the margin to 14 points six minutes into the half.

But the Lancers

regrouped, as eight straight points by Don Gunther and Mark Kohl put the team's eighth win in the books.

Kohl, playing in his first game, led the way offensively. The Grant High School graduate contributed 23 points in his debut. Gunther had 13 and David Tucker 11.

"He'll make us bigger and stronger inside and he will give us a different dimension," Smith said of Kohl.

The Saturday game pitted CLC against a bigger DuPage squad.

CLC started out missing the mark on eight of its first 12 shots, but eventually improved that shooting to the .500 level. The first half pace was clearly in the hosts favor and CLC built up an 11-point lead. Two buckets from Tucker gave the Lancers a 29-18 margin with 3:20 left in the first half.

The Chapparals held the Lancers scoreless from the field for the last three minutes of the half, outscoring CLC 8-4 and trailing just 33-29 at halftime.

CLC went ice cold from the field to start the second half. The Lancers, unable to work the ball inside, misfired on their first nine shots of the session. DuPage used the cold shooting to take the lead for the first time early in the second half.

Smith said the poor second half start was a key.

"Coaches say the most important part of a game is the first five minutes of the second half and we lost it," he said.

DuPage could not pull clearly away, though, once CLC found its shooting touch again. A hoop by Thadius Tousanna gave the visitors a 50-43 cushion with just over eight minutes left.

CLC rallied, pulling to within one point on a three-point basket by Terry Wright that made it 56-55 with 2:21 to go.

A critical miss on a fast-break led to a slam by DuPage's Charles Hale, putting his team ahead by three.

A Kohl hoop brought CLC back to within one. DuPage, working its slow-down offense to perfection, got a layup from Rob Hennelgram with 42 seconds left for a 60-57 lead. A Carter free throw with four second left gave CLC its sixth loss of the year.

Tucker had 19 points for CLC, while Kohl added 11.

Cleo Miller had 16 for the winners, while Carter had 11 and Hennelgram 10.

Coach Chuck Schramm's women's team has found the start of the season rocky, losing its first five games, but found itself looking for better things after a win over DuPage.

"We'll be all right. They're just getting to know one another," Schramm said of his 1-5 team.

The Lady Lancers opened against DuPage by taking a nine point lead into the lockerroom at halftime, 40-31. DuPage rallied, trimming the margin to three and then six.

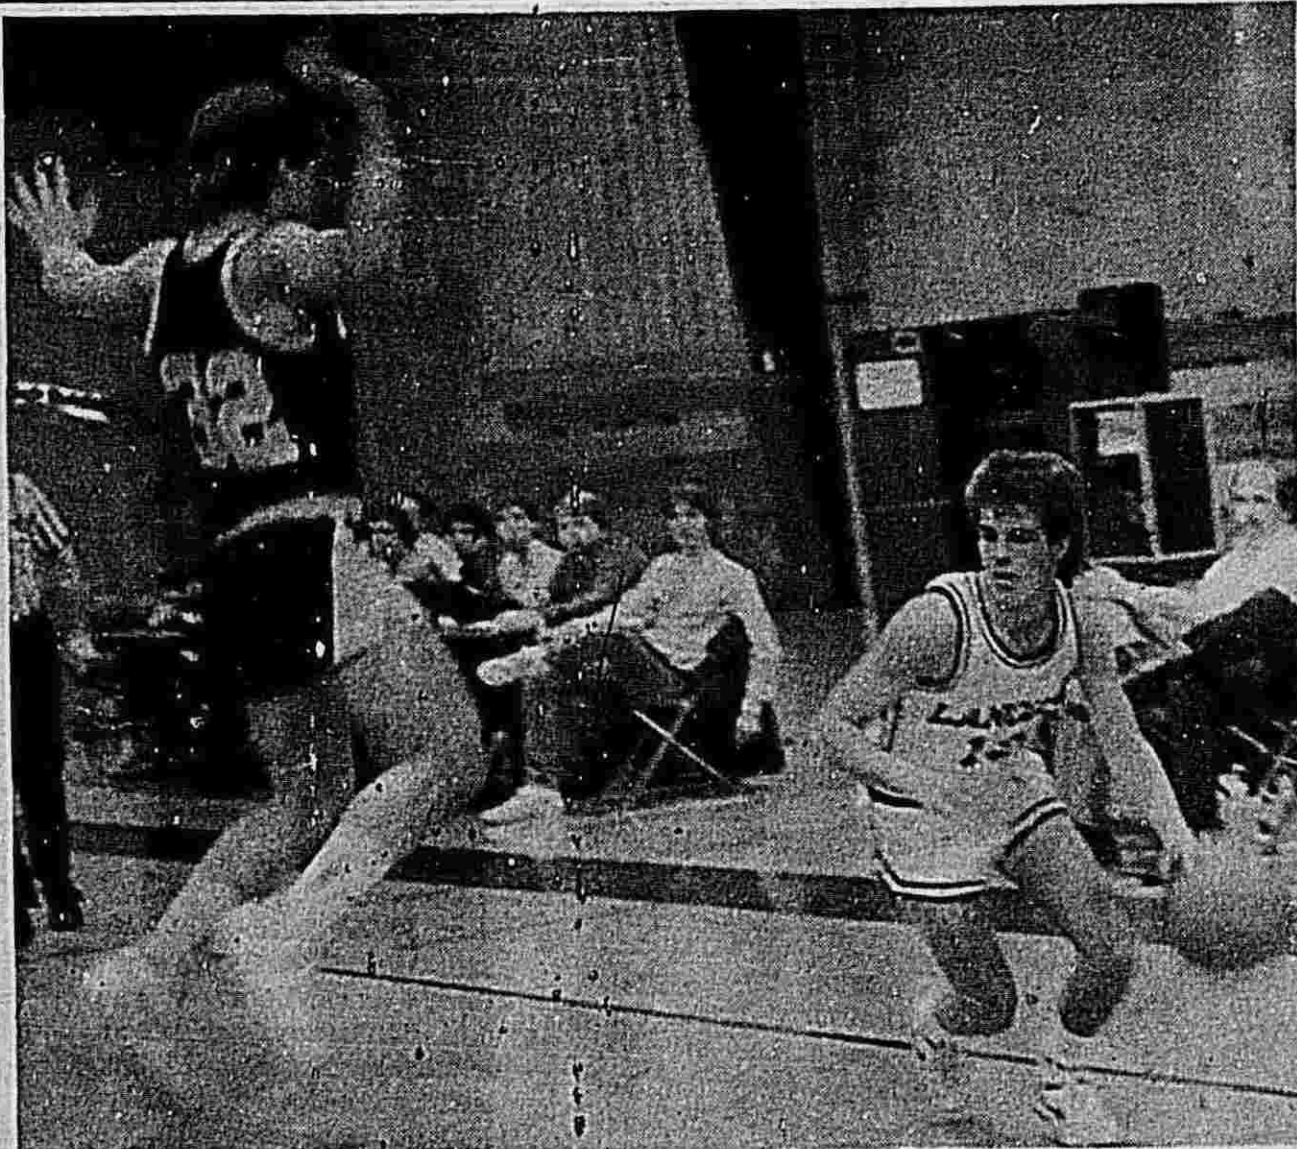

Two key hoops from Kelly Halkyard and JoAnn Hangebrauck gave the Lancers a 10-point lead with less than two minutes left.

Karen Hermann, a Libertyville High product, led the squad with 23 points with Halkyard adding 16 and Wendy Christina nine.

As for the upcoming conference race, Schramm said Truman is tops.

"It will be Truman and everyone else," he said.

The Lancers should fare well in the battle for second.

Panthers Aim For Dual Win

Round Lake's wrestling team will be hoping tournament success translates into dual meet wins this week.

The Panthers travel to Gurnee for a non-league match against one of the area's top teams in Warren Jan. 8. Warren coach Mark Tiffany's team is 10-1 in dual meets.

The Panthers fared well in the Rockford Boylan Tournament. They placed three wrestlers in the meet among the 25 teams.

In the 126 pound class, Jerry Chapman placed third, winning five matches and losing just once in the tournament. He avanged his only defeat in the tourney by defeating P. J. Antoini in the wrestlebacks for third place, Chapman has won 17 of his 20 matches this year.

At heavyweight, Buddy Estes placed fourth, winning four matches and losing two. Estes is now 13-2 on the year.

Joe Laubinger, wrestling at 145 pounds, finished sixth in the tournament. Laubinger won his first three matches.

Carmel's New Promise: Eliminate Those Turnovers

Carmel's basketball team has a New Year's resolution.

For the East Suburban Catholic Conference portion of its schedule, the Corsairs have resolved to eliminate turnovers.

At least that's what Carmel coach Frank Belmont was hoping as his team prepared for an ESCC game at home against Notre Dame Jan. 9 and a non-league contest at Weber Jan. 10.

"We played pretty well in all aspects of the game except one - turnovers," Belmont said of the Kankakee Holiday Tournament. "We had an average of 18 turnovers a game compared to our opponents' 13 or 14. That can be critical when you are in close games. We simply have to eliminate those turnovers."

Belmont said what adds to the problem is the turnovers occurred were unforced in nature - the result of sloppiness rather than defensive pressure.

In other areas - shooting, rebounding, free throws, Belmont was satisfied with his team's showing. Carmel finished 2-2 in the tourney and started 1987 with a 7-4 record. Carmel handily beat Rock Falls 81-54 and Bartonville-Limestone 54-41. The Corsairs lost to Dunbar 52-51 in the opener and lost to Naperville Central 55-50 in the consolation game.

Carmel enjoyed a balanced attack in all four games. Rob Graham scored 20 or more points in all four games, 25 against Rock Falls and 23 against Bartonville-Limestone.

Scott Stahoviak scored in double figures four times, scoring 12 against Dunbar, 11 against Rock Falls and 10 each against Bartonville-Limestone and Naperville Central.

John Wellington had 17 against Rock Falls and was over 10 in two of the other three games.

Dave Chittaro had 10 against Dunbar.

"We're executing our offense pretty good," Belmont said.

Warren Aims For League Victory Over Zion-Benton

Holidays are not a good time for wrestlers. One too many slices of grandma's favorite pie and a grappler will pay the price in weigh-in time.

That was part of Warren's problems when the Blue Devils faced two of Lake County's better teams in Grant and Waukegan East last week. The Blue Devils split, losing their first match of the season 25-22 to Grant but defeating Waukegan East 28-17.

Warren hosts Round Lake in a non-league match Jan. 8 before hosting Zion-Benton in a North Suburban Conference meet Jan. 9.

"It's tough to come back after the holidays and wrestle," Warren coach Mark Tiffany said after his team's record slipped to 10-1 in duals.

The match against Grant was a close one, decided by the Bulldogs' strength at 98 pounds and through the middle weight class categories.

The Bulldogs had revenge on their minds, as Warren had topped Grant by 15 points for the Lake County meet title. Grant finished third in the meet.

Grant started out strong, as Eric Sutton defeated Grant's Tony Borucki at 2:47.

Warren won the next four weight classes.

Nic Tomassello won a 8-2 decision over Irv Drumanski at 105. At 112, Bryan Self won 16-9 over Ryan Geist. At 119, Keith Friedman won a tight 4-2 decision over Andy Adkins. Jeff Chumbley overcame an injury for a 7-6 decision over Jerry Mazur.

Grant's middle weight classes took over.

Grant's John Mazur defeated Scott Taylor 9-7 at 132 pounds. At 145, John Bakis won on a fall at 1:33 over Mike Frecking. The wins gave the Bulldogs a 19-12 lead.

Warren closed the gap when Chris Knight earned a major decision in a 13-4 win over Grant's Mitch Meyers at 155.

The two Frystak brothers then won 167 and 185 for Grant, clinching the dual meet win. Kevin won 4-2 over Chris Manley at 167 and Brad won 4-1 over Jim Vandervere at 185.

Eric Diveldiss won heavyweight for Warren. Against Waukegan East, Warren won all matches but three.

Baurcki won by a 9-7 decision and Tomasello won by forfeit. Freidman, Chumbley and Matt Vogt all won by decision.

Taylor won 7-1 at 138, Mark Frecking won by a technical fall at 145 and Chris Knight won by a decision at 155. Diveldiss won the heavyweight battle by a 2-1 decision.

Panthers Busy

Round Lake Senior High School's sports teams will be busy as the Panthers return from Christmas vacation.

The varsity basketball team travels to Wauconda for a Northwest Suburban Conference game Jan. 9.

The girls basketball team is at Marengo Jan. 8 and Jacobs Jan. 10.

Bowling season resumes Jan. 9 when Round Lake faces Warren in an away match at Bertrand's in Waukegan.

Interment was at Ascension Cemetery in Libertyville.

Barkhausen Comes To Aid

State Sen. David N. Barkhausen (R-Lake Bluff) has come to the aid of a Libertyville firm seeking to reopen the bidding on the maintenance contract for highway signals and lights in the Chicago Metropolitan area.

Aldridge Electric of Libertyville, which has had the contract for the last year, was recently underbid for the $9 million contract by a division of a firm that was convicted in an Indiana Federal Court in early December for bid-rigging.

Barkhausen has asked the Illinois Dept. of Transportation (IDOT) to reopen the bidding on the signal maintenance contract in light of that conviction so that Aldridge Electric can have another chance to compete for the work.

The low bidder, Roadway Electric, is a division of Meade Electric, which has been convicted of bid-rigging. Barkhausen contends that the price-fixing conviction ought to be grounds for rebidding the maintenance contract.

"Our existing laws and IDOT's regulations appear only to provide for a suspension of eligibility to bid on future contracts," Barkhausen said. "Those who have been convicted of bribery can have their contracts voided, but there is no similar provision for price-fixing."

"Not only is bid-rigging a morally reprehensible crime, but it also can have an inflationary impact on the economy, and in the case of a government contract, it cheats the taxpayers," Barkhausen observed. "If current law does not give IDOT the discretion to reopen the bidding, then the law ought to be amended to provide for sanctions that are as serious as the offense," he concluded.

Premier Banks Merge With Michigan-Based Bank Group

The North Suburban Premier Banks and their six-bank holding company, Premier Bancorporation, Inc., merged with the First of America Bank Corp. of Kalamazoo, Mich. on Dec. 30.

Premier Banks chairman, Larry L. McGregor, said "Our directors and management team are particularly pleased with the First of America affiliation because of the similarity in service philosophy the two bank groups share. The banks thrive on servicing the customers in their local communities well."

The Premier Banks, with assets of $527 million, currently have 16 offices in Lake and Northern Cook Counties, and have become a division of the Michigan multi-bank holding company.

First of America chairman, Daniel R. Smith, said, "We are pleased to have our affiliation with the Premier Banks be the first interstate merger completed in Illinois since the new reciprocal legislation went into effect on July 1, 1986. We expect that the new First of America-Premier Banks Div. will continue to expand its markets in the Chicagoland area as other suburban and neighborhood community banks affiliate with us."

First of America Bank Corp. will at year end become Michigan's fourth largest banking company with $7.6 billion in assets, providing financial services through 45 banks and 347 offices in Michigan, Indiana and Illinois. The Premier Banks affiliating with First of America in the merger are the $114 million Libertyville National Bank, the $119 million Golf Mill State Bank in Niles, the $89 million Grayslake National Bank, the $74 million First National Bank of Mundelein, the $22 million Premier Bank of Vernon Hills, and the $109 million Zion State Bank.

Children Need Confidence

Children involved in self-care need training to increase their confidence and abilities. They need to know how to react in situations such as:

- being locked out
- being afraid
- being bored
- being lonely
- arguments with brothers and sisters
- using the telephone
- what to say in emergency situations
- how to respond if someone calls

-understanding the appropriate and inappropriate reasons for calling parents or other adults for help

The University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service will provide this training for parents, PTO officers, teachers and leaders on Jan. 13 from 4-5:30 p.m. in the extension auditorium. To enroll, call (312) 223-8627.

Also included are good personal safety skills, such as how to answer the door when alone, what to do if approached by a stranger on the way home, what to do if they think someone is in the house when they get home, and how to lock and unlock doors and windows.

Children staying alone need good home safety skills, including kitchen safety, what to do if they smell smoke or gas or in the event of a fire, basic first aid techniques and how and where to get help.

Many parents feel that discussing such possibilities with their children may unnecessarily alarm them. Providing children with knowledge gives them confidence and will help them deal with situations that may arise. It is wise to present children with a number of situations and have them act out their responses. For example, pretend you are a stranger at the door asking to use the phone to call a tow truck, and then pretend to be a salesman wanting to leave some free samples.

Giving many examples and having children actually respond to the situation will help them to respond quickly and flexibly if the situation actually occurs.

Movies, resource packets, booklets and teaching materials are available on loan to assist adults in teaching self-care to children. For more information, call (312) 223-8627.

Championship Golf Course May Come To Fremont Twp.

by SUSAN MONTGOMERY
Fremont Twp. may soon be home to a new championship 18-hole golf course. Joe Rice, president of Thorngate Country Club in Deerfield confirmed Monday that the club has purchased a 225-acre site on Rte. 176 west of Ivanhoe with the intention of building a first class golf course. The club's lease for its current site on Sanders Rd. in Deerfield will expire in 1995. Club officials do not have the option of renewing the agreement, Rice said. Thorngate will continue to operate both sites as private clubs until the Deerfield lease runs out.

Although discussion is still in the "exploratory" stages, Rice said plans may eventually include building a limited number of homes "available to members or others."

Fremont resident Beth Boebel, who lives on the south side of Rte. 176, sold a 10-acre parcel to Thorngate. She commented, "I understand it will be a lush, plush country club with some expensive homes."

Other property owners who sold parcels are Hawley Smith and James Carew; both live on the north side of Rte. 176. Smith sold a 210-acre site; Carew's 5-acre parcel comprises the remainder of the 225 acres.

The township currently has two other golf courses - Four Winds, further west on Rte. 176, and Countryside Golf Course, on Hawley St. west of Rtes. 60-83.

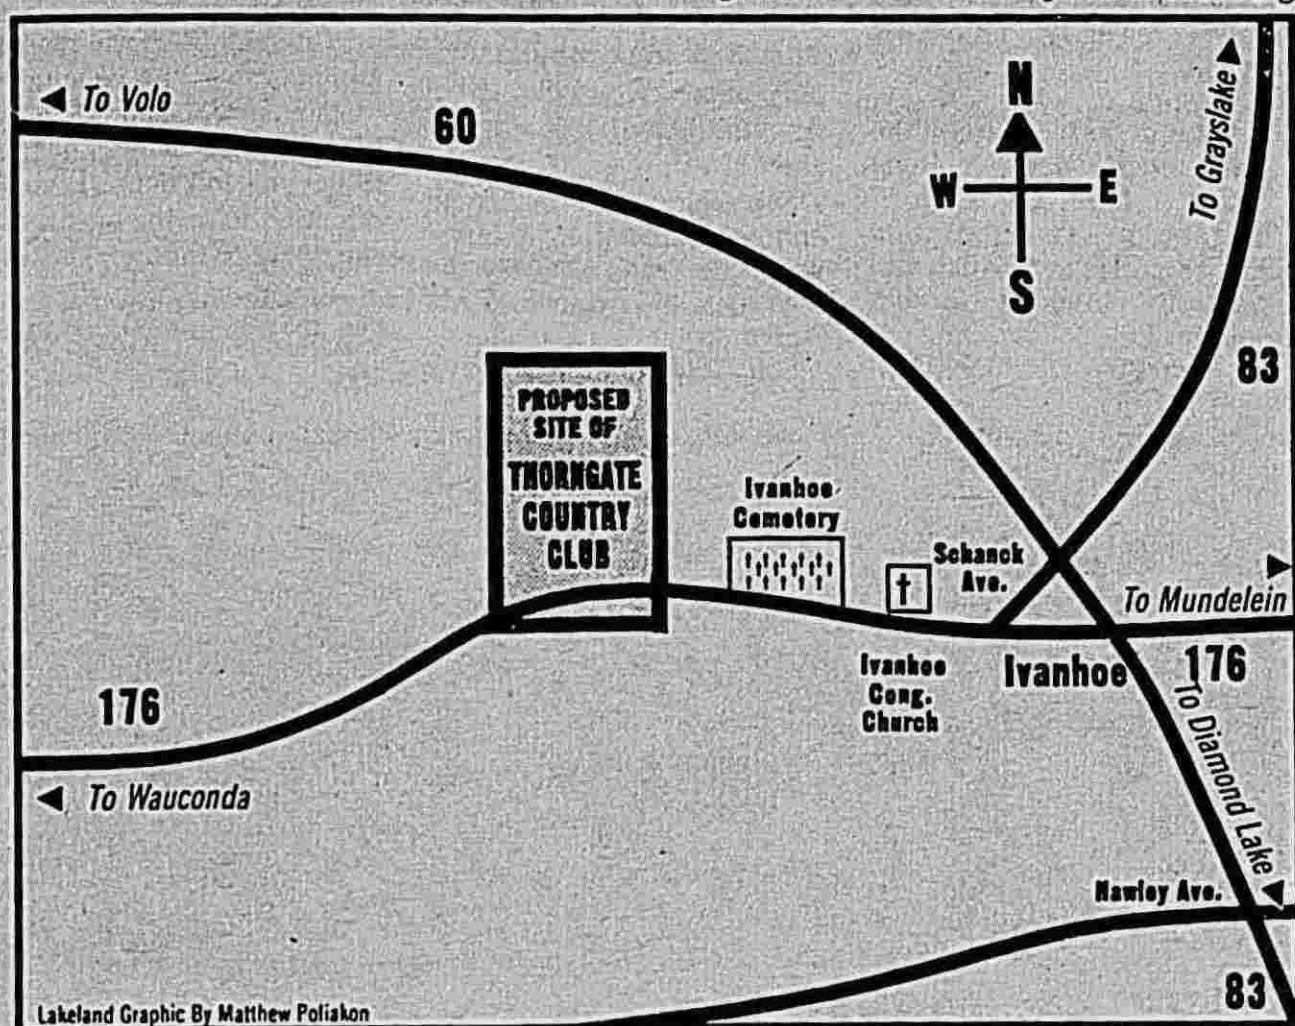

Rice said plans call for a "first class club. It is a very beautiful side with rolling hills and several ponds.

"Hopefully the community will view this as positive," he added.

Thorngate officials have consulted a golf course architect and engineers, but Rice declined to elaborate on further details. "Nothing is definite yet," he said.

Rice said Thorngate will petition for a zoning change before the Lake County Zoning Board of Appeals. The site is presently zoned for agricultural use.

Proposed Thorngate Site

Officials from Thorngate Country Club in Deerfield intend to build a championship 18-hole golf course at a 225-acre site on Rte. 176 west of Ivanhoe in Fremont Twp. The country club may eventually include a limited number of luxury homes, said Thorngate President Joe Rice. A portion of the site reportedly extends north to Rte. 60, not indicated in the diagram.

Name Frederick To Task Force

Illinois House Minority Leader Lee R. Daniels has announced the appointment of Rep. Virginia F. Frederick (R-Lake Forest) to the newly created task force for the study of Long-Term Care Insurance. The task force, created by action of the Illinois General Assembly, will be chaired by John Washburn, director of the Illinois Dept. of Insurance. Its membership will include representatives of insurers providing long-term care insurance, as well as representatives of hospitals and nursing homes involved in the long-term care of senior citizens, family members of guardians of long-term care patients, and representatives of major senior citizen organizations.

Wauconda's Schofield Finds Home In Navy

by BARRY SEYMOUR

Where Arthur Schofield of Wauconda works, the motto is "We deliver anything, anytime, anywhere."

In this case, "anything" could include 300 combat-ready Marines, and "anywhere" ranges from the frozen seas of the Alaskan coast to the humid, tropical waters of the Indian Ocean.

Schofield, the son of Patricia Schofield of Wauconda and Tilden Schofield of Sebring, Fla., is a Navy operations specialist aboard the dock landing ship USS Alamo, homeported here. The 24-year-old petty officer third class knows all about the moving business, Navy style.

"I'm part of the team that keeps an eye on the area around the ship," says Schofield. "Operations specialists track other ships, aircraft, and submarines, using radar and other means of electronic detection. On the Alamo, our Combat Information Center concentrates mostly on surface contacts—we determine who's out there and where they're going."

A 1980 graduate of Wauconda High School, Schofield joined the Navy in October 1983.

"I wanted to go to college," he says. "I was a factory foreman, but it just didn't seem like something I wanted to do. I didn't want to borrow money to go to school, so I decided to take advantage of Navy training."

After boot camp at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center, north of Chicago, Schofield received specialized training as a Navy operations specialist. After a tour of duty aboard the combat stores ship, USS San Jose, Schofield reported aboard the Alamo in September 1985.

"I like my work—it's challenging," says Schofield. "There's always something new you can learn—new ways to track contacts, new ways of figuring out information."

"I particularly enjoy the communications aspect of the job. If we're the primary control ship during an amphibious assault, we're coordinating the actions of every vessel in the operation. It takes a lot of concentration."

In addition to her 350-man crew, the Alamo can accommodate more than 300 combat-ready troops along with their supplies and equipment. Fitted with a helicopter flight deck over a large, floodable docking well, the ship can carry three of the Navy's 135-foot utility landing craft or up to 21 smaller 56-foot amphibious craft capable of transporting troops and cargo directly onto the beach.

While in the Navy, Schofield has visited the Philippines, Japan, Hong Kong, Korea, Guam, Singapore, Thailand and Australia. He says Australia was his favorite foreign country.

"Australia was just fantastic," he says. "The whole atmosphere is so friendly. Australia is a lot like America, but in other ways it's different."

"I did a lot of sightseeing. Some shipmates and I made a few friends in Perth, and they showed us around. The only thing I didn't like about my visit was that it was too short."

Schofield's enlistment will end in October 1987, after which he plans to study accounting at Arizona State University.

Schofield says the Navy has taught him patience.

"I've learned to live and work with people from all over the country," he says. "Some of them are very different from me, and getting along can be tough, but I've learned a lot."

"I'm also a more responsible person," he concludes. "I'm where I should be on time, and I do what's needed to get the job done. I've set my mind to be the best that I can, whatever I try."

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Barry Seymour is a Navy journalist assigned to the Navy Public Affairs Center in San Diego, Calif.)

University Opens Podiatric Clinic

University of Health Sciences/The Chicago Medical School announced that its Robert R. McCormick University Clinics are now offering complete podiatry service, dealing with all medical and surgical disorders of the foot and ankle.

The new podiatry clinic, under the direction of Joel F. Spatt, D.P.M., will specialize in surgery, sports medicine and children's foot problems. It will also feature new state-of-the-art computerized gait analysis equipment, says Dr. Spatt, that enables him to gather information on the individual's foot while it is actually functioning.

Dr. Spatt received his bachelor of arts from Northeastern Illinois University in 1974, and both his bachelor of science and D.P.M. from the Illinois College of Podiatric Medicine, the latter in 1978. He holds board certification from, and is a diplomate of the American Board of Podiatric Surgery. He is a member of the staffs of Highland Park Hospital and Lincoln West Medical Center (formerly Forkosh Memorial Hospital), where he did his surgical residency in 1978-79. He is an associate professor at the School College of Podiatric Medicine, Chicago; and, in addition, does surgical consulting for the Veterans Administration Hospital in North Chicago, where he is developing a podiatric residency program. He resides in Buffalo Grove.

Local Contractors Elect New Officers

The Lake County Contractors Assn. marked the beginning of its 40th year of service by electing officers and directors for the coming year.

Don Henderson, president of Joseph J. Henderson and Son of Gurnee, was reelected to a second one-year term as president of the association. Also reelected were Lyle Ehlers, vice president of Jenkins and Boller Co. of Waukegan, first vice president; Will Zeigler, president and treasurer of William Zeigler and Son, Inc. of Round Lake, second vice president; and Bob Boller, president of Boller Construction Co. of Gurnee, treasurer.

Steve Bolander, president of Eric Bolander Construction Co. of Libertyville, was elected to the board of directors for a one-year term. He replaces Larry Frederick of Skokie Valley Asphalt who retired from the board.

Other directors reelected for the coming year include Joe Gausden of Enterprise Ready-Mix Co., George

Harlow of The Bank of Waukegan, John Walker of Acme Brick and Sup. Co., Allan Pickus of Pickus Construction and Equipment Co., Tom Rosenquist of Lake County Grading Co., Roger Vignocchi of Keno and Sons Construction Co. and Robert W. Boys' Iceless Hockey Program Underway

Notes & News

by CAROLYN HAMMOND
(312) 395-6081

And so it goes—The big one got away! While the moms ran up a flag this week in Antioch as junior returned to school, the dads continued to mourn for the Superbowl that wasn't to be. The best that can be said about the Bears-Redskin game is that it wasn't as bad as the Giant-49er game. Some consolation! Maybe next year.

On Friday evening, Jan. 9 watch out for flying pucks! Over 550 boys ages seven to 11 will be brandishing over 550 hockey sticks at ten different local school gyms as the Boys' Iceless Hockey League begins its 1987 season.

Friday's games will only be for practice, but the boys playing in three different age brackets won't care. They'll be giving it all they've got! This popular program keeps getting bigger; only the limited amount of places to play restricts its size.

Also wielding sticks of a sort recently was the PM&L Theatre group as they spent three days of demolition in order to remodel the stairs and restrooms for the benefit of their theatre-goers. They are well into rehearsal for the Feb. 6 opening of "Angel Street" (Gaslight). They also have installed an above-the-stage catwalk to facilitate their productions. In the planning stage with the plumbing roughed in is a main floor handicapped restroom.

Don't forget the "Willy Wonka" movie at the Antioch Twp. Library on Saturday, Jan. 10 at 2 p.m.

Another good healthy program due to start soon is the Antioch Parks and Recreation Dept.'s boys' basketball league. Register now for the twice-weekly program beginning Jan. 20. The boys will play Tuesdays and Thursdays for six weeks from 6 to 8 p.m. Cost is $20. For more information call Glenda at (312)395-2160 during working hours.

Your children don't fit into either hockey or basketball? Maybe bowling will be their sport. Antioch Parks and Recreation will also sponsor a six-week program on Wednesday from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. for children ages five to nine at Antioch Bowling Lanes. Cost will be $16. More information needed? Call (312)395-2160.

All these activities help to give our kids (and us parents) something to do and someplace to go during this long stretch of winter. Encourage them to join!

Along the way with ANNIE MAE

The holidays are over, kids back in school and everything has returned to normal. How nice!

Have you made plans for your little ones to participate in any of the Antioch Parks and Recreation programs this winter? I don't believe that there is any better way for children to burn off some of their excess energy than to participate in organized activity. Give Glenda a call at the parks office, she has planned some really great programs.

Remember that the Chamber of Commerce's annual dinner dance at Maravele's on Rte. 59 is just around the corner. I hope that by Jan. 24 we will have recovered from the holiday feasts enough to enjoy Maravele's wonderful prime rib. The dinner dance will be fun, Maravele's dance floor is great.

The new Chamber officer's haven't been picked yet for 1987, do you suppose that a woman will be elected as president? There are some terrific women involved with the Chamber.

Are all you fishermen and ladies getting ready for the annual Ice Fishing Derby? My sources tell me that this year's derby might feature the Budweiser Sky Diving Team. There were a lot of people out practicing for the derby this past weekend.

One major annoyance as I was visiting the various fishing sites was the overabundance snowmobiles. They are so loud that they must scare the fish away. So much for a peaceful afternoon of fishing. Maybe the fishermen could drill a 1,000 foot line in the ice and the snowmobilers could troll from the back of their snowmobiles. It's a thought.

Why are there so few people signing out village board petitions? With all of the people that are involved in the community, there has to be more than one person interested in running.

A big thank you to the staff at Grass Lake School for their work in the special activities program. One of the best parts of the program is the cooking classes. Children need to learn all they can about real life skills, especially with so many of today's parents both working.

I really liked First Nat'l. Bank President, Ted Axton's New Year's resolution. Is that another way of saying that you want to lose weight, Ted?

In The Field

Make Mine Man-Made

by GLORIA DAVIS

The holidays are long over! That expensive wrapping paper has been torn to shreds and burnt, unless you're like my mother who takes one-half hour to open every gift, painstakingly removing the tape and folding each piece carefully, plus bow, to be used next year. I swear she has cartons of the door" and "buckle-up!" Now I find fault with lawmakers mandating my safety without this faceless and bodiless person tossing commands at me.

And as if that wasn't bad enough, I was forced to listen to the staccato of those vocal price rollcalls emanating from the computerized register at the checkout counter.

When I Think About It the stuff stored on her closet shelves.

By now even that New Year's hangover has disappeared and most of us have already broken any resolutions we made.

This year I found myself really showing my age by my mental reception of the actual holiday itself.

Most elderly people I know seem to have a jaded outlook on Christmas, saying that it's really a holiday meant for kids. An outlook I never understood.

For the first time, this old holiday-lover found herself staring at her Christmas tree, not with thought of how pretty it was, but with ones pertaining to the trouble it was going to be packing it away.

The opening of the presents seemed to go by faster than usual while visions of hours of shopping and impending bankruptcy danced through my head.

Why did I feel this way since taking my tree down would be no more trouble than usual and my checking account has been in the negative columns during January and February every year that I can remember.

After a soul-searching week, I have finally found a place to blame my sudden "Scroogyness" on, all those blasted talking gifts that flooded the market this year.

There's something about robotic-sounding taped voices that simply drives me up a wall. It all started on Christmas Eve and I still haven't come down.

For three straight hours Oscar wished me a rotten day via my granddaughter's Sesame St. telephone and Baby Talk kept telling me to burp her and turn her over onto her back.

Then my niece and nephew visited on a Christmas Day that dawned with animal talk as some stupid bear repeated nursery rhymes to me and a stuffed parrot kept demanding a cracker. Needless to say, it didn't even have the grace to take one bite after I gave up and brought it one.

I borrowed my daughter's new car to run to the grocery store to be greeted by another mechanical voice that ordered me to "shut

Having escaped these oral abominations, I returned home and what before my eyes (and ears) should appear but my son listening to his new wrist gear, a watch that was announcing the fact that it was 10 minutes before the hour.

Well my grandchildren went home with their too-vocal contraptions, my son went to work and for a week, I was spared anymore of those strange voices. Then the straw that broke the camel's back snapped my mind (along with all my enthusiasm for holidays and gift-giving).

The imperfect culmination of the old year and a lousy way to greet the new came as we sat down to play a game with friends on New Year's Eve and a former friend brought out his pride and joy, an electronic trivia game called Omni.

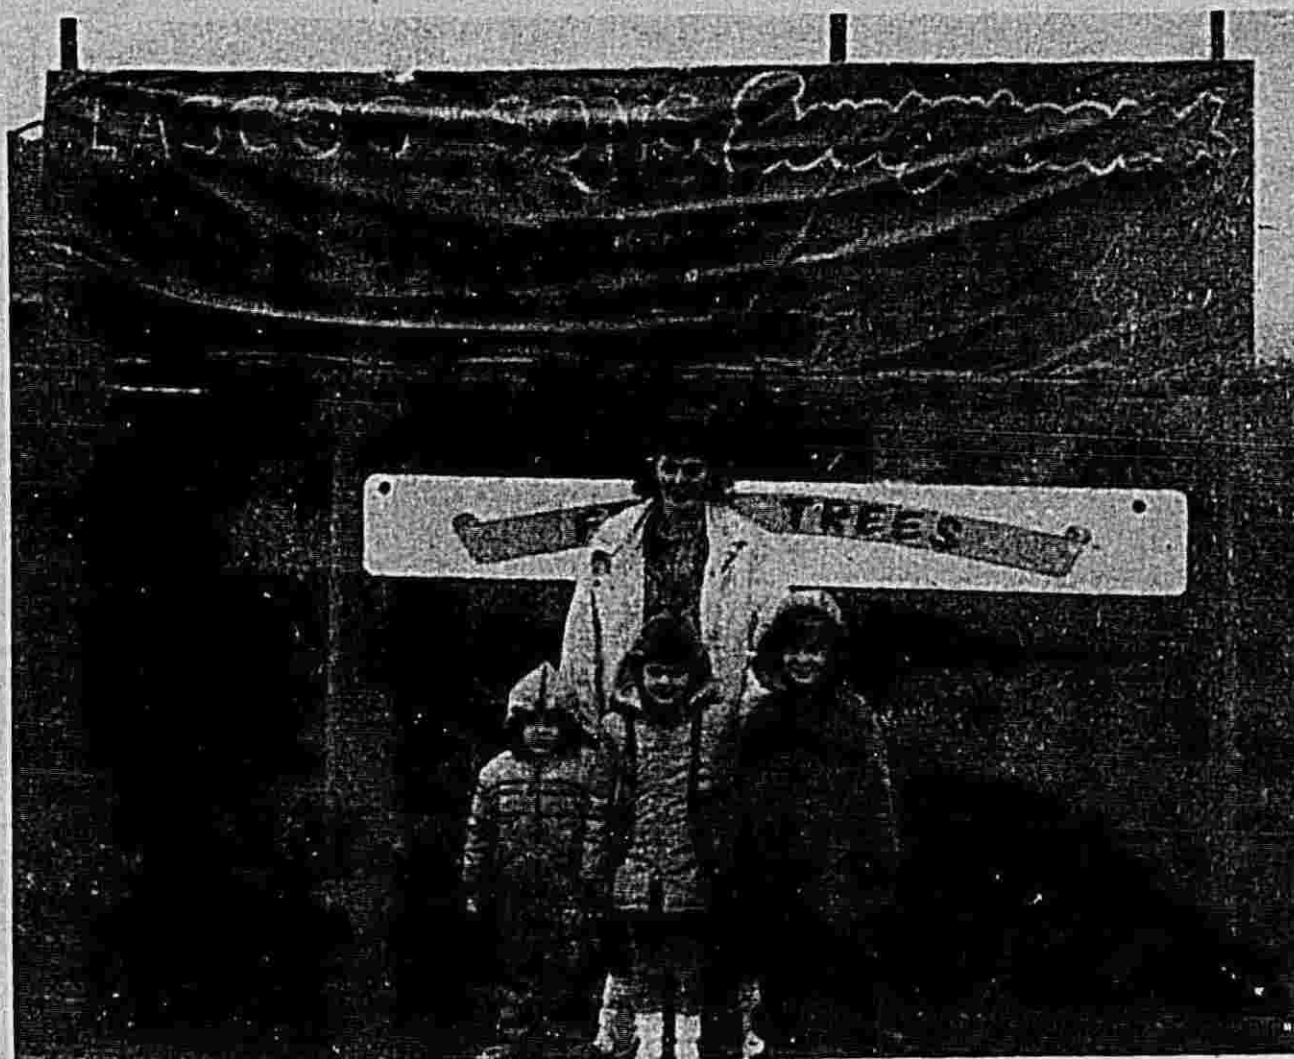

Everything seemed to go black as Vincent Price's voice kept congratulating me on getting the right answer. The last thing I remember is the sound of a guttural voice asking me the height in footage of Mt. Vesuvius.

I agree with the Pope who said that "Eloquence is a mighty thing," but I guess I like my eloquent fiber to be man-made.

Declare Dividend

Antioch Banc Shares Inc. will pay a dividend of 50 cents per share to shareholders on Jan. 5.

Ted C. Axton, president of Antioch Banc Shares Inc. and it's subsidiary, the First National Bank of Antioch said that "The First National Bank of Antioch has again shown record earnings and looks forward with enthusiasm to continued growth in helping to service the financial needs of the community."

Wins Groceries

Antioch resident, Chris Jones and her family won a $100 gift certificate from Lasco's and Sons Evergreens during the Christmas holiday. Weekly drawings were held throughout the holiday. Another winner, Audris Payne, won a Lake Michigan Charter boat trip.

Scherer Acts To Restore Plowing

Through the quick thinking of Round Lake Park Mayor George Scherer, residents who live along Casey and Harris Rds. in Avon and Fremont Twp. will have their roads plowed this winter.

Scherer noticed that, when the final Heartland agreement was approved by the county board in October, it left a large area of unincorporated area with no provisions for service. Before the agreement, which involved detaching most of the 1,800-acre Heartland property from Round Lake Park, that village had provided police protection and plowing.

Scherer instructed the village attorney, Howard Teegen of Soffietti, Johnson, Teegen and Phillips to send a letter to the county's attorneys advising them of this situation.

Scherer also sent duplicate letters to the Avon and Fremont Twp. Road Commissioners advising them of their responsibility to resume service. So the residents of Casey and Harris Rds. are in limbo no longer.

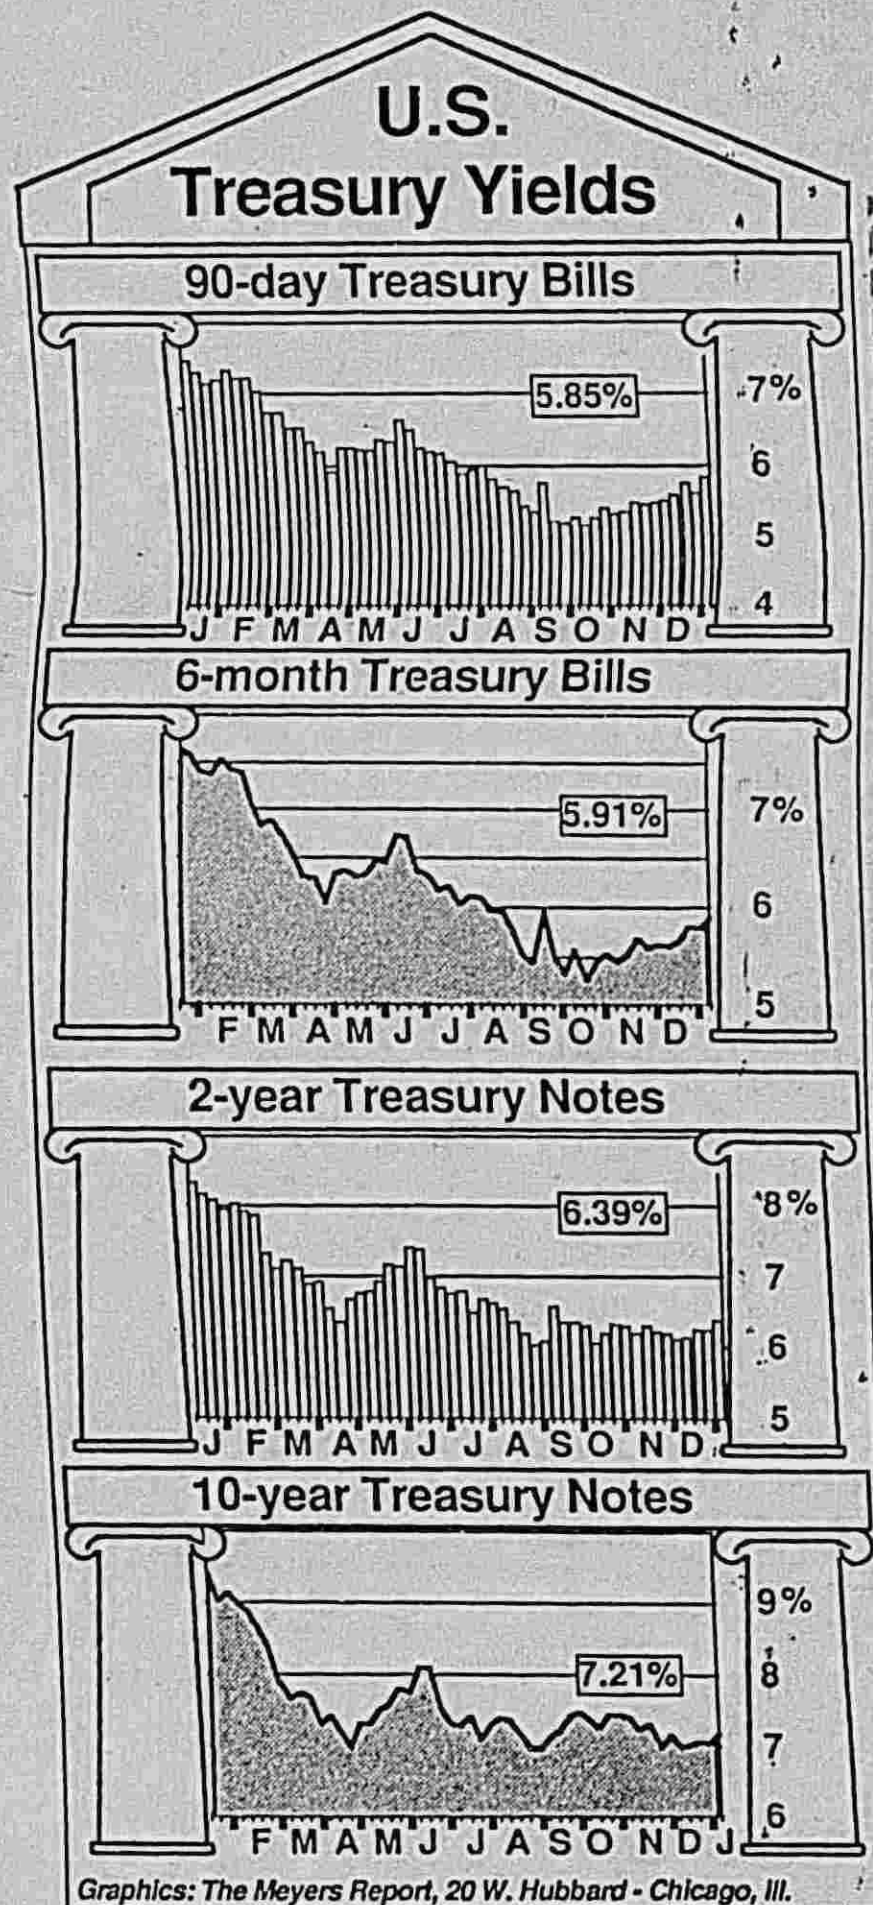

Offer Tax Forms

State Rep. Dick Klemm (R-63rd Dist.) has announced that by Jan 15, most federal and state tax forms will be available in the district office.

"Many citizens who have moved since filing their last tax forms did not receive their IRS and Illinois 1040 income tax forms in the mail, because they are not forwarded," Klemm said. "Since many people just need an extra form in order to complete their tax filing," continued Klemm, "I am offering a limited supply of these forms as a convenience to my constituents."

Klemm's district office, located at 3 West Crystal Lake Ave., Crystal Lake, is open 9 a.m. to noon, Monday through Friday. The telephone number is (815) 455-6330.

American International Wins Cancer Program Bid

Dec. 1 marked the end of five years of preparation, hope and anticipation on the part of American International Hospital's (AIH) administration, cancer program coordinator, Crystal LaRoche, and cancer committee chairman and chief of staff, Alfonso Mellijor, M.D. According to Dr. Mellijor "the lengthy preparations necessary for approval of our program by the American College of Surgeons (ACS) were worth the efforts due to the fact that we received a three-year approval, the most possible."

On Sept. 20, two ACS representatives, Robert H. Hanes, M.D. of St. Smith, Ark., who sits on the ACS Executive Committee, and Donna Stahl, M.D. of Cincinnati, Ohio, who is on the ACS Committee of Approvals, visited AIH to survey the cancer program.

The goal of the ACS is to decrease the mortality and mortality of patients with cancer. This goal is pursued by encouraging each hospital or institution to improve its cancer control efforts in prevention, early diagnosis, pretreatment, evaluation, staging, treatment, rehabilitation, and surveillance for recurrent and multiple primary cancers, and to enhance the care of the terminally ill patient.

The survey consisted of interviews with Kenneth F.

Samp, AIH Administrator, Dr. Mellijor, Ms. LaRouche, and other professionals intimately involved in the cancer program. The surveyors also reviewed the minutes of cancer committee meetings, conferences, and reviewed the medical staff bylaws, patient care evaluation studies, mechanisms for patient access to consultative services and annual reports of cancer program activities. AIH's clinical cancer program was discussed as well as the cancer registry examined.

In notifying AIH that the institution had received a three-year cancer program approval, David P. Winchester, M.D. FACS Medical Director, Cancer Dept. of the ACS, stated: "This (letter) indicates approval of the organization of your cancer program. All elements appear to be in place and functioning to provide educational, multi-disciplinary exchange on cancer patient management, to encourage quality control and audits, and to monitor the success of primary and secondary treatment through long-term follow-up.

Congratulations on attaining a full three-year approval of your Community Hospital Cancer Program. We commend you and your staff for the excellent efforts put forth to establish your program."

THIS WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

Weekly Tip: Time to start long delayed projects. Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 20) Some may let you down, but don't let them get you down. Count on yourself to get things done. Later, celebrate your successful efforts.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) Charge into the work load ahead and take charge of the demanding schedule. Ration your energy expenditures so that you'll have plenty of time.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Romantic problems need hard-headed attention. Things don't get better if you just leave them alone. Leaky boats need patching.

Cancer (June 21-July 20) Cupid's arrows may be misfiring, but don't remove yourself as a target. Instead, reassess what you've been doing and change tactics.

Leo (Jul 21-Aug. 22) Playing hard to get won't get the romantic Cat too far this time. That very important person your whiskers have been twitching for prefers honesty.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A go-ahead comes through. But it may be more than you expected to have to do. Before you balk, take a wait-and-see attitude and think things over.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Some unpleasant words may be exchanged between you and a former associate. Play down the importance of the tiff. It's better kept quiet.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) An on-the-job misunderstanding causes some upsetting moments. Avoid confrontation unless you're unfairly accused; then stand up for yourself.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Facing issues before people are ready to deal with them is like getting a rose bud to bloom by pulling the petals open. The effort is destructive.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's time to start planning the big trip you've been putting off for far too long. Don't let anything but really important matters distract you.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) A trip is in the works. However, expect to have to delay your plans for a short while to handle a sudden flurry of activities.

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) Disappointments are temporary. Delays are soon replaced by go-ahead signals. Your bout with the doldrums gives way to a new burst of excitement. © 1987, McNaught Synd.

BRING US YOUR SKILLS

Our growing group of Illinois and Wisconsin Newspapers has several opportunities open now in a fast-paced, exciting field.

Receptionist

We're looking for a mature person to take over the position of receptionist in our central office. You'll handle a variety of clerical duties. Applicants must be able to type and be comfortable with the telephone.

This is a full time position with full benefits, including vacation and hospitalization. If you enjoy working with people, like variety and seek a congenial team environment, see us now! Applications are being accepted at:

30 S. Whitney St.
Grayslake, IL

Advertising/Marketing

A self-motivated person desirous of finding a place in the challenging field of advertising and marketing will be interested in the opportunity available in the retail advertising department of Lakeland Newspapers.

The person who can work with a minimum of supervision and enjoys utilizing their creative skills to help others will find great satisfaction in this position. Since the position involves making contacts outside the main office, a car is necessary and mileage compensation will be paid.

Inexperience in advertising sales will be no hindrance. We can train you if you have desire, a high level of energy, are dependable and willing to work hard. Persons entering the job market for the first time, returning to the work force after a lapse due to family responsibilities or making a career change are ideal applicants. You will be successful if you are persistent, outgoing, responsible and organized.

For more information and an interview appointment:

Contact Bill Schroeder Jr.

Issue Influenza Alert

The flu or various symptoms identified as influenza occur more frequently during the winter months.

Influenza is a viral infection, and as such, warrants special attention because a swift and deadly children's disease is associated with it.

The disease, Reye's Syndrome, affects children from infancy through late adolescence and can develop three to five days after the onset of chicken pox, an upper respiratory illness, or other viral infections.

It affects the liver and brain, is non-contagious, and is often misdiagnosed as encephalitis, meningitis, diabetes, poisoning, drug overdose or sudden infant death.

After a viral infection has seemingly run its course and the child is feeling better, the following symptoms should be treated as serious and as possibly the first indications of Reye's Syndrome.

Anti-nausea medication may mask the symptoms of the disease and because of the possible association of aspirin with Reye's Syndrome, parents should consult their physician before using these drugs. Watch for these symptoms, usually occurring in this order:

- Relentless or continuous vomiting;
- Listlessness (loss of pep and energy, drowsiness);
- Personality change (such as irritability, combativeness or slurred speech);
- Disorientation (unable to identify whereabouts or family members);
- Delirium, convulsions.

A child's life can depend on early diagnosis. Reye's Syndrome should be suspected in any child with chicken pox who vomits repeatedly.

Phone a physician immediately if these symptoms develop and tell him or her that Reye's Syndrome is suspected.

If the family doctor is not available, take the child or young adult to an emergency room promptly.

Two liver function tests (SGOT/SGPT) can be done to determine the possibility of Reye's Syndrome. There is a 90 percent chance of recovery when the syndrome is treated in its earliest stages by physicians and nurses experienced in the treatment of Reye's.

Epidemiologic research has shown an association between the development of Reye's Syndrome and the use of aspirin for treating the symptoms of influenza-like illnesses, chicken pox and colds.

The U.S. Surgeon General, the Food and Drug Administration, and the Center for Disease Control recommend that aspirin and combination products containing aspirin not be given to children 18 years of age and under during episodes of these illnesses.

If Elected...

The first woman candidate for President was Victoria Woodhull in 1872. She was nominated by the National Woman's Suffrage Assn.
